Madison Bond vote Sept. 27

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

A special referendum on a bond issue proposal to finance part of the construction of a new junior high school in Madison will be held Sept. 27, it was decided by the Madison School Board in a special meeting Monday night.

School officials said the exact amount of the bond sale needed has not yet been determined but that it will approximate $800,000.

The Madison School District has been awarded a grant of $1,769,925 by the Illinois Capital Development Board for construction of a new "middle school" estimated to cost $2,538,464. Local share of the project on this basis will amount to $758,539.

Sale of bonds for the school construction is not expected to result in a tax rate increase, officials said, because a construction bond issue approved in 1969 will be retired soon.

William Seiple of the Illinois School Consulting Service outlined procedures to be followed in presenting the bond issue.

Members of the board currently are contacting citizens to ask them to serve on a citizens advisory committee to support the bond issue.

A special meeting of the board, citizens on the new committee and the Illinois School Consulting service will be held Tuesday at the board office beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The board received authority from state school officials to again hold split shifts at the junior high due to the overcrowding conditions.

Mrs. Barbara Madison has been named as volunteer coordinator for the Teacher Corps in the Madison elementary schools. The program is to train adults, who have degrees but not in education, to be elementary teachers. The program is being conducted in conjunction with Southern Illinois University Edwardsville.

Coleman Jr. has said his department's air traffic study will be the only basis for his ruling on whether to retain Lambert or shift to the Columbia-Waterloo site for area airport construction. The ruling implies Coleman might not wait for the results of a master plan study of possible Lambert expansion.

Record GC budget

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

A record high budget of $6,623,265 for the 1975-76 fiscal year — including projected expenditures of $1,188,487 out of federal revenue sharing accounts — was approved by the Granite City Council Monday night.

The overall budget made up of $5,434,778 in the general fund and special accounts and the $1,188,487 in federal revenue sharing fund expenditures is an increase of $293,740 over that of last year.

Last year's appropriations totaled $5,242,691 in the operating budget and $1,086,834 in revenue sharing items, a total of $6,329,525.

Passage of the budget by a narrow margin — requiring a vote by Mayor Paul Schuler to approve adoption — climaxed several weeks of controversy over the extent of salary increases and a number of budget items which would have resulted in an estimated tax rate hike of 16 cents per $100 assessed valuation if they had been left in the budget.

On the basis of the final figures, however, City Treasurer Paul Rutledge said that city revenue for the 1975-76 year and budgeted expenditures "look as if they'll come out about even."

Rutledge said he is unable to determine if there will be any increase in the tax rate pending approval of the new tax levy. The levy, which determines the amount of taxes to be collected by the city next year, will be passed by the latter part of August.

The budget figures provide a 12 per cent across-the-board pay raise for all city employes and a $100 per month pay increase for the police chief, fire chief and the city engineer. City Clerk Roy Stevens said the exact amount of the annual increase in salary figures has not yet been computed, but cited an earlier estimate that the salary boosts will cost the city an additional $264,000 this year.

The salary agreement approved by the City Council during the past several weeks of budget preparation also provides for a salary increase of 8 per cent next year, which will increase city workers' salaries by a total of 20 per cent over the two years.

The budget ordinance was presented by Alderman Ronald Coleman of the Seventh Ward, chairman of the Finance Committee, who told council members that considerable "trimming" had been effected in budget figures during the weekend, reducing the appropriation total well below the tentative budget presented earlier to the council.

The budget was opposed by Alderman Walter Nonn who voted "no" on a motion by Coleman to suspend the rules and place the ordinance on final passage. Such rules suspension requires a minimum of 10 votes on the 14-man council.

Cyclist killed

Dennis R. Terry, 26, of 1 Sunflower Court, Pontoon Beach, was injured fatally when his motorcycle struck a utility pole guy wire along Old Alton Road, one-eighth mile south of Interstate 270 at 6:30 p.m. yesterday.

State police said Mr. Terry's motorcycle was southbound at a high rate of speed when he lost control at the curve in the roadway, went off the pavement, hit the wire and the motorcycle flipped end-over-end. There were no passengers.

Mr. Terry was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival at 7:20 p.m. yesterday.

A lifelong resident of Granite City he attended local schools and was a member of Suburban Baptist Church. He had served four years in the U. S. Navy and was employed at Granite City Steel.

Survivors include a 4-year-old daughter, Julie Ann Terry; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George (Evelyn) Moore of Granite City and Roscoe Terry; a brother Gary Terry; two sisters, Mrs. Gary (Kathleen) Sneed and Mrs. Duane (Jacqueline) Shemwell; grandmothers, Mrs. Mary Carlile and Mrs. Edna Terry all of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Local tax collections end in area tomorrow

Granite City taxpayers have only Friday remaining in which to pay their real estate tax bills locally, City Treasurer Paul Rutledge noted today.

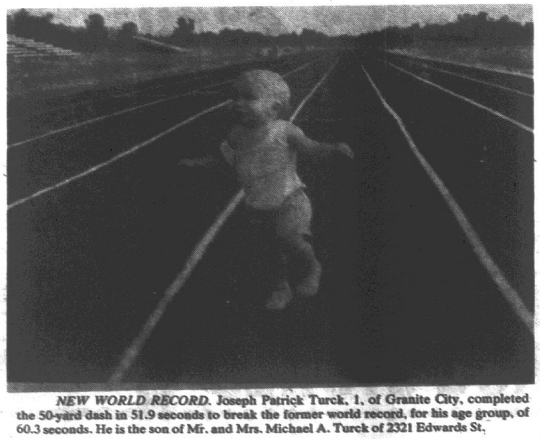

The local tax collection period will end with the close of business tomorrow, followed by return of the tax books to County Treasurer George Musso at Edwardsville.

After tomorrow, Rutledge said, all tax bills must be paid at the county treasurer's office, which will mean distribution of tax money to local tax bodies at the convenience of the county treasurer's office.

Local tax collections were made in Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau Townships this year to permit local collectors make an early distribution of tax moneys to taxing bodies within their respective townships. This was done, the collectors explained, because distribution of collected funds often are made late by the county.

Rutledge said collections this year have been slower than usual. Real estate taxes may be made at any of the Granite City banks.

Local collections by collectors of Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau Township also are due to end after tomorrow's office hours.

NEW WORLD RECORD. Joseph Patrick Turck, 1, of Granite City, completed the 50-yard dash in 51.9 seconds to break the former world record, for his age group, of 60.3 seconds. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Turck of 2321 Edwards St.

GC man killed, another wounded in shooting

James Lee Brandon, 27, of 1632 Maple St., was killed and Gerald L. Leibold, 37, of 5014 Lakeview Drive, Pontoon Beach, was seriously wounded during a shooting incident in the rear year of Mr. Brandon's home at 8 p.m. Monday.

Police were called to Mr. Brandon's home and found him lying face down in the back yard with gunshot wounds to his forehead, the left side of his neck and to his left upper arm.

A .22 caliber pistol was found about 10 feet from the body, it was reported.

Mr. Brandon was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

While police were at Mr. Brandon's home, Patrolman Michael Sparks reported he was attempting to stop a speeding car near the hospital, until the driver of the car yelled the word "Hospital" to Sparks. The officer then followed the car to the emergency room parking lot.

The driver identified himself as Leibold and he said Brandon had been killed. "Don't worry about him. He's dead," Leibold was quoted as having told police.

A hospital security guard asked Leibold for the keys to his car so it could be moved from the ambulance unloading area outside the emergency room. The security guard said Leibold gave him permission to get the keys from his pants pocket and when the guard reached for the keys, he alleged finding a small caliber pistol and five live rounds of ammunition in the pants pockets.

Leibold was admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit with a gunshot wound to his upper right chest area.

Police said a gunfight between two men was believed to have started over a disagreement concerning some tires which had been slashed on a vehicle.

An autopsy was conducted on Mr. Brandon's body Tuesday, indicating he had been killed by small caliber bullets, possibly .25 caliber. Two slugs were recovered from his body which

Revive police unit

The former State Park special police unit 33A, which was disbanded when Madison County discontinued its special deputy commissions, will be reactivated soon.

The reactivation of the unit was assured by action of the Nameoki Town Board of Auditors Monday night as the board amended its federal revenue sharing budget to provide $9,500 to that department to purchase a police car.

About a dozen volunteers from the State Park area will undergo 40 hours training each in the Madison County Sheriff's Department to qualify as "supervisors of safety" who will be certified to assist the sheriff's deputies in traffic control and other limited duties.

The Nameoki Town Board also voted to transfer a $10,000 federal revenue sharing appropriation set aside for new fire plugs directly to the Long Lake Fire Protection District to have 14 new fire hydrants installed immediately where water mains now exist.

Other hydrants will be added "as needed," the auditors were told.

Action on amending the revenue sharing budget to provide funds to the State Park police unit came after a public hearing on the proposed budget revision.

The department originally requested more than $9,000 to purchase and equip one police car. At the hearing, auditor Norman Hessler suggested the township grant $5,000 to the department, taking it from an existing $10,000 park fund.

John Boyer, spokesman for the police unit, said the offer of $5,000 is greatly appreciated, but noted it would represent less than 60 per cent of the amount requested and Boyer said he did not feel it would be enough for the department to adequately set up operations.

The board decided to use all of the money from the park fund for other purposes and ordered $9,500 transferred to a special fund for the State Park police unit and the remaining $500 transferred into the township's environmental cleanup program.

It was explained that the new police unit would have to advertise for bids for a new police car and the bids would have to be opened by the Nameoki Town Board, which would award a contract and pay for the car.

All bills incurred by the police unit which are to be paid from the township's fund must be approved by the Town Board of Auditors prior to payment, it was added.

Boyer assured the auditors that the department will follow that procedure and added that the police unit's financial books will be open at all times to anyone with a legitimate reason to check them.

The $10,000 grant to the Long Lake Fire Protection District previously had been included in the budget and no action was required on that issue at the public hearing.

After adjourning the public hearing, the auditors met in a special session to approve the recommended transfers within the revenue sharing fund budget.

At that meeting, Auditor W. Lee Adams said he had met with officials of the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co. who had assured him they would install 14 fire hydrants immediately where water lines are available.

The fire district will be required to pay $49.60 per month for each hydrant's rental, but there will be no charge for installation, Adams related.

The transfer of the $10,000 to the fire trustees was approved, contingent upon the completion of the necessary procedural steps which H. Carl Runge Jr., attorney for the township, was requested to initiate.

The board approved increasing its insurance coverage on the town hall building addition and new equipment. The

Chouteau questions use of highway equipment

Allegations that Chouteau Township Highway Commissioner James Estes has been authorizing the use of township equipment for private work outside of the township were raised by Chouteau Township Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks during the Chouteau Town Board of Auditors regular meeting Monday night.

Sparks told Estes at the meeting, "I have been told by several people that our people (highway workers) were blacktopping ground in Granite City at 2405 Jerden Ave. I went down there and looked and there has been new blacktop down there," Sparks alleged.

The property involved is the home of Madison County Deputy Sheriff John Cooper. Estes also is a deputy with that department.

Cooper said he did not know who had done the work, but said he had been promised a long time ago by a Mitchell contractor and trucker that he would blacktop Cooper's carport.

Cooper said he was on vacation in early July and when he returned, he noticed the new blacktop. "I just figured he finally got around to it," Cooper said.

The contractor in question has submitted a bill to the Township for $900 for a quantity of concrete pipe sold to Estes, which originally had been purchased by the contractor from a St. Louis firm for $2,000. The St. Louis firm alleges it never has been paid for the pipe.

The contractor also is reported to have loaned Estes a blacktop roller on several occasions.

The concrete pipe purchased by Estes' department is being used to change drainage in a ditch along Lakeview Drive from an open ditch to an underground 24-inch pipe. The $900 for the pipe has not been paid since Estes' Department is in debt.

Sparks has alleged the work is unnecesssary and "is a waste of township money." He said the ditch should be left open because it will carry more water than the underground system and because it can be cleaned easier than a pipe if it becomes clogged.

Sparks charged the ditch was put in by farmers for draining their property and does not affect drainage of the roadway, which is the only responsibility of the highway department.

Estes denied at the meeting any knowledge of the work at Cooper's home. "Are you sure it was my men?" he asked Sparks. Sparks said he did not know, but noted that witnesses had said it was Chouteau Township equipment and men.

Sparks requested that Estes "go down there and investigate. It was reported to me that our equipment did it."

Estes said it could not have been done with a township roller. "Our township does not have a roller. I don't know how

World record set by local toddler

Joseph Patrick Turck, 1, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Turck of 2321 Edwards St., set a new world and United States record last week in the 50-yard dash.

Joseph, who celebrated his first birthday Tuesday, ran the dash in 51.9 seconds at Cougar Field on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, breaking the previous record, for his age group, of 60.3 seconds set by Kelly Strain of Juneau, Alaska in 1973.

The feat was witnessed by Robert E. Conreaux and Terry Wilson, both of Granite City, and was made in accordance with records listed in Age Records, Track and Field News, Los Altos, Calif.

GC park budget

The Granite City Park District Board of Commissioners Tuesday adopted its 1975-76 fiscal year budget of $754,532 at a special meeting at the Wilson Park office.

The adoption of the document followed a public hearing on the proposed budget.

Major improvements are included in the budget, including a new lighted softball field at the West Granite Park; repairs to the Wilson Park swimming pool; and completion of two new tennis courts now under construction at Wilson Park.

Budgeted for general fund purposes is $449,071, including $62,527 for administration, $201,688 for the operation of parks, $33,300 for concession stands, $70,756 for operation of the swimming pool and $80,800 for the ice skating rink.

A total of $308,136 is budgeted for recreational programs and facilities.

Other appropriations are: $35,000 for municipal retirement; $9,000 for liability insurance; $61,125 for the retirement of bonds; and $3,200 for an annual audit.

The new budget is $20,056 higher than last year's budget of $734,476.

Rape Crisis Center aids victims

Services provided by the Rape Crisis Center in St. Louis and the history of the organization were explained Tuesday noon to the Granite City Rotary Club at its meeting in the YMCA, by Mrs. Pamela Klein and Mrs. Judy McNeilly, volunteer workers at the center.

The Rape Crisis Center was formed in late 1972 by St. Louis area women concerned about the crime of rape in the community, and about the treatment received by rape victims from society and from the medical and legal systems.

In March 1973 the center's phone was installed (1-314-773-1313) and remains the principal contact with rape victims, the Rotarians were told.

Future plans of the center include an expanded range of speaking engagements and more contact with other community groups to familiarize people with the services of the center.

There is also an increased emphasis on education of the legal and medical communities concerning rape, the speakers said.

They noted that between 1968 and 1973 the incidences of rape rose 70 per cent, according to FBI statistics, and that rape is the nation's most frequently committed violent crime.

Some facts about rape discussed were: 87 per cent of rapes involve use of a weapon or violence against the victim; most rapists are "normal" in terms of sexual behavior; 75 per cent of all rapes are planned in advance; rape is not natural, according to Margaret Mead, noted anthropologist, and rape is unknown in some cultures; 90 per cent of all rapes occur between people of the same race, with four per cent committed by white men against black women and three per cent committed by black men against white women.

The statistics used by the speakers were taken from the FBI, the Federal Commission on Crime and Violence and Amir's classic study "Patterns in Forcible Rape."

According to the speakers the reason for the high rate of rape lies in the sexism which pervades American culture. Rape grows out of and reinforces the roles that men and women are taught to follow in our society, they said.

These roles are obsolete and oppressive and can be changed, according to Mrs. McNeilly.

Boys are taught that aggressiveness, even violence, is evidence of manliness and girls are taught to be meek, passive and dependent on men.

The center provides emergency service to rape victims, including hospital referrals, transportation, companionship and temporary housing; professional referrals for post-crisis counseling and legal aid, and a speakers' bureau, offering facts about rape to inform and educate the community.

The center is operated strictly by volunteer women and is financed through private contributions, speaking engagements and bake sales.

A training workshop for new volunteer workers is being planned for September.

"Women wishing to volunteer their help may contact either myself at 877-3650, or call the center between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m.," Mrs. McNeilly said.

4 GC boys arrested in auto theft case

Four Granite City boys, ages 12 to 15, face action in the Alton juvenile courts after they were allegedly seen in Alton yesterday getting out of a car they allegedly stole in Granite City.

The auto of Alfred Gehlert, 2709 Center St., was reported missing from his carport at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday and when a description of the car was given to surrounding police departments, the Alton police reported they had covered the car.

Police first were called to an area where youths were allegedly siphoning gasoline from a car. They saw Gehlert's auto driven from the scene with what they believed to be five boys in it.

They followed the car until it stopped by Delmar Street and the occupants got out and ran down an embankment by railroad tracks where they hid in tunnels. Police fired a warning shot and two boys surrendered. Two others were arrested nearby a short time later.

Tear gas was thrown into a tunnel to see if any other boys were hiding there, but no one emerged.

One 15-year-old boy taken into custody had been placed on probation in Granite City last week in connection with a car theft, authorities related.

C. D. Hampton found dead

Charles D. Hampton, 35, a former Venice Alderman, was found dead in his home at Moline, Mo., at 1 p.m. Monday by a neighbor. There were no signs of violence.

An inquest was held. Death apparently was due to natural causes. It was estimated that he had been dead about 24 hours before he was found.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hattie Hampton of Venice; two brothers, John Hampton of Venice and Curtis Hampton of St. Louis.

A Charles D. Hampton Scholarship fund for needy students from Madison High School to attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and State Community College in East St. Louis, is being established at the First National Bank in Madison, according to David Hodges, a close friend of Hampton.

Funeral services will be held 1 p.m. Saturday at the Southern Missionary Baptist Church, 921 Bissell St., Madison. Interment will be at Sunset Garden of Memories, Stockey Township.

Mr. Hampton was director of Student Services at State Community College in East St. Lollis. He had joined the junior college staff in 1970 as a counselor and was named student services director in 1973. For several years before 1970 he was employed as a teacher in the East St. Louis School District.

Following his graduation from Madison High School he worked at Granite City Steel and the Madison plant of Dow Chemical Co.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in history and government from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where he also did graduate work.

Mr. Hampton served as alderman of Ward Four in Venice from 1965 until 1969 when he was an unsuccessful candidate for Venice city treasurer.

He was a former secretary of the Venice City Plan Commission; president of the NAACP and co-chairman of the Bi-County (Madison and St. Clair) Manpower Advisory Board.

Mr. Hampton also was the former chairman of the Tri-Cities Economic Commission, a former board member of the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission and EOC's personnel committee and a member of the Neighborhood Youth Corps advisory board.

He was a member of Local 1220, East St. Louis Federation of Teachers, and previously served as the local's building committee chairman and a member of the finance and budgetary committee.

Record budget

only nine votes were cast in favor of suspending the rules to place the bill at passage stage. In instances where a council vote can be decided by the mayor, the mayor has a right to vote. Mayor Paul Schuler voted "yes" to give the required ten votes.

Voting in favor of the budget measure, in addition to the mayor, were Aldermen Sam Whitmer, Coleman, Warren Decatur, Frank Greenwald, Everett Morlen, Ray Poulos, William Dallas, Emerald Howes and Steve Basarich. Those absent were Aldermen Clyde Boyd, Gerald Parmley, R. E. Robertson and Earl Fisher.

The bulk of the city's improvement projects and equipment purchases are budgeted in the federal revenue sharing accounts, which also are used to meet some of the payroll costs.

Projected expenditures in the Fire Department this year are budgeted at $703,518 in the general fund, up from $606,556 last year, but also include appropriations in the federal revenue sharing accounts, among these are $50,000 for installation of an Opti-Comm system which changes traffic lights to green upon the approach of emergency vehicles.

Other Fire Department appropriations in the revenue sharing accounts include $2,500 for a radio base station, $6,000 for Nomex protective coats and pants.

A breakdown of the Fire Department budget lists this year's total salaries at $591,160, up from $536,632 last year. Fire Chief Don Parent will receive a salary this year of $18,835, up from $17,635.

The total budget of the Police Department exceeds $1 million with $939,738 in the general fund and $112,897 budgeted for the payroll out of federal revenue sharing funds. In addition, the revenue sharing budget includes $40,000 for 10 new police cars and $28,000 for radio equipment, antennas and recording equipment.

Police Department salaries listed in the new general fund budget total $658,941, an increase of $108,984 over last year's salaries of $547,857. The salary of the chief of police is budgeted at $18,835, the same as the fire chief, up from $17,635 last year.

Both the Fire and Police Department budgets include $1,800 each for payment of $100 monthly salaries to the three members of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners. The monthly salary was raised from $50 by council action Monday night prior to adoption of the budget.

For the Street Department, the new budget sets up a total of $567,552 in the general fund, up from $458,751 last year, but several major items for that department are included in the revenue sharing accounts.

The general fund budget sets up $342,671 in Street Department salaries, plus another $40,000 for part-time help. Street Supt. Lionel Portell is to receive a salary of $17,500, up from $13,000 last year.

The revenue sharing budget also includes $21,580 to help meet the Street Department payroll from Entitlement Two of the revenue sharing accounts, and $54,419 for Street Department from Entitlement Five.

The revenue sharing budget also includes $2,446 for asphalt overlay work in Ward One and $10,000 for asphalt overlay in Ward Six. Funds for sidewalk construction are budgeted in the revenue sharing accounts to include $10,000 for Ward One, $4,107 in Ward Five and $15,000 in Ward Six.

For the Sanitation Department, the budget provides $355,283, of which $334,383 is to pay for garbage and refuse collection under contract.

A total of $345,229 is budgeted for general government purposes, including $132,651 for the legislative department, $58,946 for the executive department, $39,384 for the treasurer's office and $34,246 for the legal department.

For operation of the city's sewage treatment plant, the appropriation includes items totaling $377,600, including salaries of $171,262. The total cost is a reduction from $385,193 last year. Salaries budgeted for this department include $171,262 for employes, up from $164,145, and $16,789 for the superintendent, up from $15,589.

A total of $459,108 is appropriated for maintenance of sewers. Of the total, $400,000 is budgeted for repair of sewers.

they could have done it," he told the auditors.

He also said his department didn't have any equipment to haul a roller to Granite City. Town Clerk Patricia Polley reminded Estes that several bills have been presented to the Town Board recently for parts to construct a trailer for hauling rollers, and other equipment, and Sparks reminded him that his department has been borrowing a roller from the Mitchell contractor.

In other business, the board reviewed preliminary floor-plans for a proposed township office and community center building which is planned for construction in the near future.

The architect was instructed to begin to prepare more detailed building designs and cost estimates for the board's consideration.

The building is to be financed by federal revenue sharing and Community Development Grant funds at no direct cost to the taxpayers.

Mrs. Polley told the board that she has received $25,000 in taxes from Town Collector Charles Lexow for taxes now being collected, and received another $23,000 as a final payment from County Treasurer George Musso for taxes collected last year.

Mrs. Polley also reported she used some of the money from Lexow to redeem a $20,000 tax anticipation warrant for the highway department. Another $30,000 in warrants remains outstanding for that department, it was noted.

In response to a letter inquiring about the township's liability for the actions of men working under the Manpower program, a letter from the township's insurance agent was read indicating that township officials and the township are covered by the existing policy, but injuries to the Manpower workers would not be covered.

The Manpower workers are covered under the Workman's Compensation program, the auditors noted, but said the workers still might sue the township for injuries received. The board took the information under advisement.

The next board meeting will be at 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 8, at the town offices, 825 Thorngate Drive. The architect is to present the board more detailed plans on the proposed building at that meeting.

insurance on the building will be increased to cover $75,000 worth of damages instead of the $30,000 former coverage, and the policy for the building's contents is to be increased from $3,000 to $10,000 worth of coverage.

Paddlers will compete this weekend in a championship meet at Summersport of Alton beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday and concluding Sunday with championship events, beginning at 9 a.m.

Feature wheelstanders Saturday

The popular wheelstanding "Hemi Under Glass" will be pitted against the "Chuck Wagon," a wheelstanding Volkswagen, in a best of three series racing program Saturday night at St. Louis International Raceway on Route 203 south of Madison.

The wheelstanders cover the quarter-mile dragstrip on their rear wheels only, reaching speeds well in excess of 100 miles-per-hour. Steering of the cars, while up at about 55 degree angles, is done with special brakes on the rear wheels.

The cars are usually powered by blown and injected racing engines behind the drivers.

The race also will include racing for cash in the top eliminator and selectra eliminator brackets as well as competition in all trophy classes. Spectator admission will be $3 and special refreshment prices will be in effect.

Tim trials will begin at 5:30 p.m. and eliminations will start at 8:30 p.m.

The race is being termed a warm-up for the upcoming Gateway Nationals of Drag Racing held annually at the track. This year's nationals will be Aug. 22, 23 and 24 and will be sanctioned by the International Hot Rod Association.

The track recently changed its affiliation from the American Hot Rod Association (AHRA) to the IHRA. The change ended plans for the five-day AHRS National Challenge race to be held in St. Louis.

National Steel reports sharp drop in production, shipments

National Steel Corporation earned $12,165,493, or 65 cents per share, in the second 1975 quarter, Chairman George A. Stinson reported Wednesday. Sales for the quarter totalled $511,258,127.

"Shipments to automotive, appliance and construction markets have been at near-historic lows of recent times," Stinson said, "reflecting not only lower consumption of steel but also major liquidations of steel inventories.

"Hopefully, early signs that this liquidation has about run its course will be confirmed by a higher level of purchasing in the third and fourth quarters. We now have indications of a firmer market tone in August and September, reflecting not only the end of this inventory liquidation but an increase in production by our customers."

For the first half of 1975, earnings totalled $36,024,067, or $1.93 per share. First half sales were $1,115,607,210.

"Second-quarter earnings suffered not only from the effects of lower shipments and production," Stinson said, "but also from mounting costs without any offsetting price relief. Prices on the great majority of our shipments were last increased more than one year ago, on July 1, 1974. In the intervening 12 months, major price extras have been lowered, so that our prices, in the main, are below one year ago."

Production and shipments fell sharply during the second 1975 quarter. Primary steel output totalled 2,129,500 tons, down 19 per cent from the year-earlier quarter. Shipments totalled 1,389,200 tons, a drop of 37 per cent from the second quarter, 1974. For the first six months, production totalled 4,611,300 tons, or 15 per cent below the first half of 1974, and shipments totalled 3,149,800 tons, a 32 per cent reduction from the year-earlier period.

"Recent market weakness has been an obstacle to price increases up to this time," Stinson said. "Now, however, increased labor costs, effective Aug. 1 and coming on top of substantial year-long cost increases, make upward price adjustments imperative.

"Current unsatisfactory financial results point up the inherent difficulty faced by our company and the steel industry as a whole in meeting costs of badly needed expansions," Stinson said. "We are continuing, in National Steel, with plans previously announced to add to our steelmaking capabilities with the expectation that improving business conditions and profitability will permit us to carry them out.

"A continuation of the present low level of earnings for any protracted period, however, will force a review of those plans", Stinson said.

Investment credit included in the second quarter, 1975, results totalled $2,500,000 and for the first half, $5,000,000.

The consolidated income summary follows:

(The first figures are for the quarter ended June 30, 1975: The second for quarter ended June 30, 1974: The third for the six months ended June 30, 1975: and the fourth for the six months ended June 30, 1974.)

MIDGET POINT LEADER Bob Wente Jr., of St. Louis, heads the St. Louis Auto Racing Association's midget ranks into action Saturday here at Tri-City Speedway in a triple-racing card with the late model and sportsman class stock cars, starting at 7:30 p.m. Wente, a son of three-time U.S. Auto Club National midget champion, Bob Wente Sr., also competes in national midget competition.

Midgets join race card

The St. Louis Auto Racing Association midgets will compete Saturday evening in a triple-racing program at Tri-City Speedway along with late model and sportsman class stock cars.

Heading the contingency of midget drivers into action on the quarter-mile dirt oval here will be St. Louisian Bob Wente Jr., a second generation driver.

A son of three-time U. S. Auto Club midget champion Bob Wente Sr., the younger Wente is dividing his racing career between the local organization and the national midget championship trail.

Two weeks ago, at a national midget event in Indiana, Young Wente placed fifth in a heat race, and was running well in the semi-feature event until his racer spun in oil left on the track when Ralph Liguori's car engine broke.

"Racing with USAC and the St. Louis Club is about as different as night and day," remarked Wente.

"I thought I was a hard runner here, but in national competition they really 'stand on the gas'."

Wente Jr., was only two points behind leader Chuck Taylor in the St. Louis Association's point standings going into a racing program this past weekend at Springfield, Ill.

A third-place finish in a heat race at Springfield, and a second-place finish in the 40-lap feature event there behind winner Wes Stafford of Indiana, vaulted Wente into the top spot in the local association's point standings going into Saturday's program here.

He added valuable marks to his point margin Sunday at Belleville when he finished third in a 25-lap feature race which was won by Kenny Schrader.

His feats in attaining the St. Louis point lead is quite unique, in that he has yet to capture a feature event this year.

"I have been finishing consistently in the top spots in each race," he explained.

"In fact," he added, "all three of us in the first three spots in the standings have never won a feature race this season.

"So, it just goes to show you that consistency does pay off," he commented.

Two other drivers who will compete here Saturday also believe in consistency — Russ and Mike Wallace.

Russ is the current late model stock car point leader here with 3,820 points and will seek his eighth feature win of the season.

His son, Mike, heads the sportsman division point standings at 2,310 and will seek his fourth feature win of the season at Tri-City.

The triple program is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. with the late models competing on the half-mile track, and the sportsman cars and midgets performing on the smaller oval.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Fall practices begin Aug. 13

Athletes in eight sports (including 534 downstate and suburban football-playing schools) in which state tournament series are conducted this fall by the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) will begin practice Wednesday, Aug. 13.

Three tournament series will debut, while another will be conducted for the first time according to the established IHSA classification pattern.

The new tournament series will be conducted in Girls' Golf (District tournaments are set for Oct. 11 and the State Final for Oct. 17-18 at the Illinois State Univ. Course, Normal), Girls' Field Hockey (with Sub-Sectional tournaments set Oct. 28-Nov. 1, Sectionals Nov. 7-8 and the State Final Nov. 14-15 at New Trier West High School in Northfield) and Girls' Swimming (with Districts set Oct. 25 and the State Final Oct. 31-No. 1 at New Trier East High School in Winnetka).

Class A and Class AA competition will be conducted in the Boys' Golf series, with Districts set for Oct. 1, Sectionals Oct. 18 and the State Final Oct. 24-25 on the Orange and Blue courses at the Univ. of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

The other fall tournament series are Boys' Cross Country (with the State Final slated Nov. 1 at Detweiler Park in Peoria), Boys' Soccer (with the State Final scheduled Nov. 7-8 at Illinois State Univ., Normal) and Girls' Tennis (with the State Final to be Oct. 24-25 at Arlington High School in Arlington Hts., Ill.).

In addition, a series of 23 IHSA-sponsored football rules interpretation meetings for officials registered with the Association, coaches, administrators and other school personnel will be held throughout the state and surrounding area from Aug. 16 through Sept. 4, in order to provide uniform interpretations in revisions of the 1975 prep grid rules for all persons who are connected with the IHSA football program.

Serving as football rules interpreters this fall will be IHSA Asst. Executive Secretary L. L. Astroth of Bloomington, Norman Geske of Wheeling, Charles Hillman of Hinckley, Ted Search of Chester and Robert L. Wright of Champaign. Only officials who attend the 1975 rules meetings will be eligible to be selected to work the 1975 playoff series.

Nine football-playing schools will issue equipment and arrange to have players take their required physical examinations at an earlier date, but under the rules of the Association, no school may organize or practice its football team prior to the third Wednesday preceding Labor Day, nor may a school participate in an interscholastic football game or scrimmage prior to the Friday following Labor Day (Sept. 5). Football players also must engage in a minimum of 90 minutes of actual field practice on each of 14 days (excluding Sunday) preceding the player's first interscholastic game or scrimmage.

Athletes in the other fall sports may participate in competition as early as the first day of school.

Addition of the three new girls' tournament series, along with a softball tournament series scheduled to begin next spring, brings to eight the number of tournament series designated for girls conducted during the 1975-76 school year by the more than 820 secondary schools belonging to the IHSA.

Expansion of the Boys' Golf series to the two-class system brings to five the number of athletic activities for boys where competition is divided according to school enrollment. The other activities where classification is employed are football, basketball, track & field, and wrestling.

In all but football (where there are five classes), the Class A competition is for schools with enrollments of 750 or less and Class AA is for schools with enrollments of 751 or more.

Rules interpretation meetings in Girls' Field Hockey and Swimming also will be conducted throughout the state. The swimming meetings will be at five sites from Sept. 3 through Sept. 11. Interpreter will be Margaret Kelso of Dolton. The meetings will be conducted at Dolton Sept. 11, Homewood-Flossmoor Sept. 8, Hinsdale (Central) Sept. 10, Park Ridge (Maine South) Sept. 9 and Peoria (Richwoods) Sept. 3.

The field hockey meetings will be at five sites from Sept. 8 through Sept. 11. Interpreters will be: July Kretzschmar of Elmwood Park and Helen Riley of Charleston. The meetings will be conducted at Deerfield Sept. 8, Edwardsville Sept. 9, Lombard (Glenbard East) Sept. 9, Pana Sept. 10, and Pekin Sept. 11.

Power and beauty blended during motorcycle races

Two persons emerged as overall victors Tuesday night at Tri-City Speedway during the American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned weekly racing program — Danny Kirkland in the motorcycle feature event, and Cathy Martin in the "bikini" contest.

Kirkland, 18, of Millstadt, swept to victory in every event he entered for the fifth time this season.

The youthful athlete rode to victory in his heat race, semi-final event and then led David Rush and Texan Jimmie Lee across the finish line in capturing the main event. Lee placed second behind Kirkland in both the heat race and semi-final event.

Miss Martin topped 13 other "bikini" beauties in being chosen the winner by a panel of four judges.

In addition to receiving a trophy herself, the winner presented a first-place award to Kirkland for his accomplishment.

Miss Martin, 16, a Kirkwood High School student, will serve as trophy queen for the remainder of the racing season during the Tuesday evening programs.

Other motorcycle racing event winners were: Rush, first heat; Terry Poovey, second heat; Dave Fisher, fourth heat; Robert Smith, fifth heat; Robert Beary, sixth heat; Gary Ruest, consolation event; Poovey, second semi-final; and Doug Ahn, third semi-final race.

Quad-City area riders who fared well in events were brothers Glen and Greg Falter. Glen placed third in a heat race and a semi-final event, and finished 10th in the feature race. Greg took second place in the consolation race.

Doubleheaders on Inter-City card

Illinois Inter-City Baseball League competition enters its season homestretch Sunday with a full card of doubleheaders on tap for participating teams — Fairfax against Mercer's at Wilson Park, Troy at East Alton Vans, and Highland-Pierron at Panama — each game beginning at 1 p.m.

Just six weeks of competition remain on the league schedule before league playoffs get underway on Sept. 7. Three doubleheader dates are included in the schedule, including this Sunday.

Highland-Pierron still heads the league standings for the second straight week with a 12-7 record, and Troy has the number two spot at 8-7.

The East Alton Vans, after winning a regular schedule contest early this week and then downing Panama 12-8 in a makeup game the same day, wrested third place from Fairfax. The Vans are now 9-8 and Fairfax 9-9. Panama is fifth with a 8-9 record, and Mercer is 8-10.

A recent league calculation shows Granite Cityan Mike Martinez is heading the league batting with a .550 average. Martinez, a member of the Highland-Pierron squad, collected 11 hits in 20 times at bat.

Heading the Mercer team in batting is Bob Scott with a .415 average, and 17 hits in 41 times at bat. Jim Greenwald is second with a .353 average, and 12 hits in 34 times at the plate.

Flood signs as SIUE trackman

Rodney Flood, a Steeler shotputter at Granite City High School North this spring, is among seven outstanding prep and junior college stars who have signed letters of intent to enroll at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this fall, Cougar head track coach Jack Whitted announced this week.

Flood, at 250 pounds, usually teamed with schoolmate Ed Opich in giving the Steelers a double-punch in shot put events, and according to Steeler mentor Harry Lang "gave us a lot of depth and was our insurance for adding points in meets."

The Steeler athlete had his best throw of the season with a 52-foot heave; earned second place in the Mattoon Invitational, and was first in the eight-school Belleville East Relays.

The other six athletes who will join Flood on the Cougar squad (which posted a 7-1 record and set 11 new school records this past spring), are: Gregory Carter of East St. Louis, Arlen Lattina of Cahokia, Tom Rhodes of St. Louis, Ricky Dickerson of Edwardsville, and Carl Mobley and Larry Sutton, both of New Jersey.

Scarborough batting .444

Granite Cityan Jack Scarborough's two-for-four effort at bat wasn't enough to lift the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Cougars over St. Louis, University, last week, but the SIUE hitting star continued to pace his team at the plate with a blistering .444 average. SIUE fell to the Bills, 6-4, in the game which was shortened by darkness.

Overall, Coach Roy Lee's Cougars now 13-8 with roughly one-fourth of the season in the Missouri-Illinois Collegiate Baseball Instructional League championship race still to be played. St. Louis U. leads the league with a 14-6 record.

Trailing Scarborough in the hitting race is John Urban of Livingston. Urban, who was the Cougars' third baseman during the regular season and hit .345 in 38 games, is blasting the ball now at a sensational .403 clip.

In third place in the summer league hitting parade for the Cougars is Greg McBride with a .340 average. Just slightly behind McBride is SIUE's first-sacker, Bill Lee, with a .333 batting average but whose 11 doubles, one triple and solo homer gives him second behind Scarborough's .681 slugging percentage.

Lee's slugging average is .591. Scarborough has hit 10 doubles, a pair of triples and one four-bagger.

Scarborough paced all SIUE regulars in hitting during the Cougars' 33-13 regular season with a .338 average to edge out Pat Scholz, catcher, who finished with a .321 figure.

Larry Moore, a mainstay on the regular SIUE team on the mound, is now 4-2 with a 2.63 ERA.

SUNDAY WAS FUN DAY at the 13th annual Kiwanis boat races on Horseshoe Lake where nearly 1,000 spectators gathered to watch the high-paced action races. The races attracted entries from eight states including several national championship drivers. Proceeds from the event are used by the Granite City Evening Kiwanis club for local civic projects. The action took place near the intersection of State Aid Route 35 and Highway 111.

High school football season opens Sept. 5

"Gridiron Gladiators" from 534 football-playing schools of the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) including GCHS North and South and Madison, begin their trials by combat for berths in the second annual Football Playoff Series when the 1975 season gets under way Friday, Sept. 5.

Champions in five classes (based on enrollment) will be crowned the weekend of Nov. 21-22 on the artificial battleground at Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University at Normal. Each of the 500 conference-affiliated and 24 independent teams will be in a position to decide its own fate on the playing field starting with the opening game of the campaign the first weekend in September.

The Illinois system is unique to prep football tournament competition. The champion of each conference is guaranteed a berth in its respective class. In the event of co-champions, a conference will select its representative.

To be eligible for the playoffs, each team must play a minimum of eight games by Nov. 1. For conference affiliates, at least five games must be against teams within a school's conference.

In addition, independents, co-champions not selected as the conference's representative and conference runners-up with winning percentages of 80 per cent or better will be given consideration for the "at large berths" in each of the five 16-team brackets.

The "at large" selections will be made by the IHSA office, with first consideration given to independent teams meeting the criteria, second consideration given to co-champions meeting the criteria and third consideration given to runners-up meeting the criteria.

"We are extremely proud of the system we have adopted in Illinois," said Executive Secretary Harry Fitzhugh. "The results of last year's playoffs helped to prove the sound thinking that went into the establishment of our system.

"Every school which had an undefeated team was represented in the playoffs. Each of our five champions concluded the year undefeated. In fact, three of the five runners-up suffered their first loss of the season in the championship game," he said.

Last year's champions were (with records shown): Class 1A — Flanagan (12-0); Class 2A — Decatur (St. Teresa) (13-0); Class 3A — West Chicago (13-0); Class 4A — Rockford (East) (13-0); and Class 5A — Northbrook (Glenbrook North) (12-0).

Last fall there were a total of 65 football conferences and 529 football-playing schools. For 1975, there will be 66 conferences and 534 schools.

52 Elks at golf event

Fifty-two golfers, representing Granite City Elk's Lodge 1063, competed during the past weekend at an Illinois State Elk's Golf Tournament, Lincoln, Ill.

Charles Rodell acted as general chairman of the event, and Ed Reinagel as chairman.

Tully Huebner shot a 75 for the low net score followed by Gary Butler with a 77, and Dr. C. A. Schmidt a 79.

The winning teams in the local lodge's individual tournament were: Dr. Joseph Pineda and Bill Hodge, first place; John Janek and Carl Pashoff, second; and Frank Kraus and Claude Miller, third.

Hasty 4th at Omaha

More than 170 of the nation's best young wrestlers battled at Omaha, Neb., last week for 13 spots on the U. S. World team which competes this weekend in a tournament in the Dominican Republic. Among those trying for a spot was Granite City's Darrell Hasty of Granite City High School South.

Hasty, a freshman wrestler this past season as a Warrior, took fourth-place at Omaha in 143-pound competition, winning four of his six bouts.

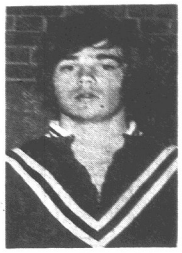

He defeated Rob Smith of Washington 7-6, Mark Stier of Minnesota 18-1, Jim Hoeve of Minnesota by a pin, and Mark Abo of Minnesota on a 7-7 referee's decision.

Hasty then lost his bid for a spot on the World team upon losing 5-6 and 2-3 to two other Minnesota matmen.

He would have needed third place in his class to earn a spot on the Dominican Republic-bound team, headed by Coach Jerry Wager of Las Vegas.

"This team we're taking will be the best one the U. S. has entered in international competition since the last Olympics," commented Wager following the Omaha qualifying meet.

"A youth who won here (Omaha) has accomplished a tremendous feat," he said of the Omaha trials. "To figure we had more than 200,000 youngsters start and that we wound up with only 13 tells you how tough the competition was. Anyone who placed in the top six could probably be a continental champion in Europe."

DARRELL HASTY

Hasty, 15, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Don (Donna) Hasty, 2917 Indiana Ave., began his trek toward the Omaha trials at Joliet June 14, when he won five matches over matmen from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota.

On June 21, he qualified for a five-country tournament in Mexico by taking top honors in his weight class at Omaha in an Amateur Athletic Union national meet, topping wrestlers from 13 states.

At the Mexico meet, Hasty placed third after losing to a Colorado foe.

Prior to his journey around the U. S. and into Mexico, he took second place last month in the Mississippi Outdoor Open freestyle tournament at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Bandit handcuffs employes in robbery at drug store

An armed robber handcuffed employes of the Reese Drug store in the Tri-Cor Medical Building, 2044 Madison Ave., and took an undetermined quantity of Class 2 narcotics Monday.

The employes said a man entered and said he needed something for nasal congestion. He had a metal nose bridge over his nose. A young woman employe walked to the counter near the cash register to get some nose spray and she said the man pulled his shirt out from the waistband of his trousers and displayed a large revolver.

She said he told her to go behind the drug counter and he pushed her in that direction. He then told the man pharmacist not to push any alarms. He said he wanted drugs. "All the good stuff."

The pharmacist told the robber to open a cabinet door at the end of the counter where the Class 2 drugs were kept. The woman then was told to sit on the floor by the open cabinet and the robber gave a large paper bag to the pharmacist, ordering him to fill it with the drugs, it was related.

The pharmacist filled the bag and gave it back to the robber who then gave both employes sets of handcuffs and told them to put the handcuffs on.

Neither employe could get the handcuffs on without help and the robber then became angry and handcuffed the woman. He also handcuffed one of the pharmacist's wrists and told both to go into a closet at the end of the counter and to remain there for five minutes.

They came out of the closet shortly after they heard the pharmacy door close and they called police.

An inventory is being conducted this week to determine what drugs were taken. Nine types of drugs are known missing.

Police later found a car with its engine running on the lot at 21st Street and Delmar Avenue where Central School was demolished.

The car, stolen from Mike Trtan, 1633 Mitchell Ave., while parked in the lot of American Steel Foundries, was believed to have been used in the robbery. The ignition lock had been punched out and "hot wired" to allow the car to be started without a key.

The victims said the robber appeared to have had surgery recently on his nose. In addition to the nose bridge, both his eyes were blackened and there was white tape across his nose and under his eyes.

He was believed in his early 20s, weighed about 165 pounds and was about 5 feet, 9 inches tall. He had dark hair and green eyes and wore a light yellow long-sleeved shirt and dark trousers.

Coast Guard warns boaters

As this year's boating season moves along at full speed, so do boaters. Many without an appreciation for the mariners' traffic signs.

You know, those funny colored floating garbage cans that were so handy to tie up to last year. Actually, these are buoys which, when combined with various signs and daymarks, assist boaters in determing a safe course and warning them of dangers, according to the U. S. Coast Guard.

Most boatmen are able to figure out that red buoys are to be kept on the right when traveling upstream. An aid showing a green light at night should be kept on the left when traveling upstream. A diamond shape indicates danger. A circle signifies some sort of controlled operation and a square shape signals the conveying of information, the details of which are spelled out within the shape.

Few boaters, however, realize that they should not rely completely on the position or operation of such aids for a number of reasons. First of all buoys represent only approximate positions indicated by dots and circles on charts. These positions are subject to errors in buoy placement, weather, current as well as the slope and physical makeup of the bed on which the anchor rests.

Buoys are moored to anchors with varying lengths of chain which allow them to swing to some extent in current. Aids may also be damaged by vandals or accidental collisions.

There are a few other things concerning navigational aids the Coast Guard cautioned boaters about.

Number one—boats passing too near buoys, especially in rough water, run the risk of collision with a yawing buoy or with the obstruction it marks.

Two—it is illigal to tie up to a navigational aid. A boat tied to an aid might obstruct it from other boaters or pull it out of position.

Remember that a buoy is a moving thing, riding with the movement of the wind and current. Although weighted to the bottom, such aids can be shifted in position by a number of things. Allow a margin of error when relying on such aids.

BURGLARY AT CLEANERS

Several cans of cold beer were all believed stolen during a burglary at Alright Cleaners, 2209 Madison Ave., which was discovered Monday. A board placed in a window after a previous burglary was removed to gain entry. The building was ransacked. Keys taken from the counter were found in a laundry basket at the rear of the building.

THEFT FROM CAR

Mary Kamadulski, 3641 Highway 3, reported last week that a citizen band radio valued at $350 and her purse containing several credit cards, $150 in cash and a diamond ring were stolen from her car parked in front of her home.

4,000 business women at convention in Las Vegas

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Mrs. Maxine R. Hays of Junction City, Oregon, was installed as president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs (NFBPWC) and the Business and Professional Women's Foundation during impressive ceremonies last week at the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev.

The installation of new national BPW officers climaxed the six-day national convention, attended by over 4,000 delegates, alternates and observers, including nine officers and members of the Granite City BPW Club.

Composed of 170,000 members in 3,700 local clubs, BPW is the first and largest organization of employed women.

Delegates at the 1975 convention, the largest group ever to assemble for a national BPW conference, concentrated their attention on a campaign to complete ratifiention of the Equal Rights Amendment and other current issues of specific significance to employed women.

Conducting the installation in the MGM Grand Ballroom were past national BPW presidents Miss Sarah Jane Cunningham of McCook, Neb. (1966-67) and Mrs. Hope Roberts of Reno, Nev. (1968-69).

Installed as president-elect was Miss Jane Culbreth of Leeds, Ala.

Also assuming office for 1975-76 were: Mrs. Piilani C. Desha of Hilo, Hawaii, first vice-president; Mrs. Geraldine R. Eidson of Fort Worth, Tex., second vice-president; and Mrs. Julia K. Arri of Pomona, Calif., third vice-president.

Mrs. Hays has long been active in BPW on the local, state and national level. She is a past president of the Oregon Federation and was a 1969-70 member of the National Finance Committee, which she served as chairman in 1970-71.

In 1971-72 she was national treasurer and in 1972-73 she served as BPW's second vice-president and as first vice-president the following year.

Co-owner and manager of an insurance agency, Mrs. Hays also is a wife and mother. A partner in a dual profession family, the new national BPW president shares business partnership with her husband, Ken. She is the mother of a son, Mike, at home, and a married son and daughter.

"A woman must know herself," Mrs. Hays said. "She can begin to develop her full potential by looking inward and reaching outward. By involving herself in inter-personal relationships and community activities, she helps others as well as herself."

Active in many civic organizations, Mrs. Hays lives her philosophy. She is a consultant to the Governor's Committee on the Status of Women, a member of the National Association of Insurance Women, the National Association of Women Highway Safety Leaders, Soroptimist Club and Executive Board of the Lane County Central Republican Committee.

She is a board member of the Junction City Chamber of Commerce which she has served as treasurer, and a former board member of the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Hays' other activities include chairmanship of the Junction City Budget Committee and work on the Career Education Advisory Council. She is a former member of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women and District 5 of the Governor's Commission on Youth and also contributes her time to the United Methodist Church.

The BPW's new national president is listed in "Who's Who of American Women," "The World Who's Who of Women," "Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans" and "Personalities of the West and Midwest."

Dramatizing the growing strength and involvement of career women in national issues the record-breaking 4,000-plus delegates and alternates heard a tribute to the "Women of Achievement" led by Mrs. Marie B. Bowden of Leesburg, Fla., immediate past national president, as part of the opening ceremonies.

State presidents, national officers and distinguished guests were introduced following the presentation of colors by the Nellis Air Force Base color guard.

"Progress is a Many Faceted Thing" was the topic of the initial guest speaker, Lisa Sergio, noted author and lecturer.

Principal speakers at the convention were Betty S. Murphy, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, Washington, D. C.; Ed Myers, vice-president, public relations, Southern California Edison Co.; and Robert C. Hickey, director of University of Texas System Cancer Center, M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

Special workshops focused on such areas as: United Nations; Parliamentary Procedures; Individual Development; membership; Young Careerist; program; finance; public relations; legislation; treasurers'; and Foundation.

Among the convention highlights was the "National Speak-Off" in which contestants, chosen at state conferences held earlier this year to represent their state federation, competed for national honors.

Mrs. Lois Wetton of the Granite City BPW Club, representing Illinois, spoke on the subjects — "Happiness" and "Bicentennial — The Meaning to Us All."

Candidates were introduced by Mrs. Nita Fox of North Dakota, national program planning chairman, and were required to give a five-minute prepared speech and a two-minute extemporaneous talk.

State federation winners represented Oklahoma, California, South Dakota, Indiana, Texas, Maryland, Utah, Tennessee, Wyoming, Ohio, Colorado and Illinois. Their professions included school principal, bank officer, missile guidance systems director, accountant, teacher, telephone company employees and a women's fashion shop owner (Mrs. Wetton).

Serving as judges were a teacher of English and Italian, the women's editor of the Las Vegas Sun, a retired teacher of therapeutic dramatics for the emotionally disturbed and a professor of theatre arts from the University of Nevada.

First place winner was the California representative, a telephone company supervisor, whose topics were "Resourcefulness" and "The Energy Crisis."

A well-attended event, with close to 500 present, was the "Illinois Breakfast" arranged in the Goldwyn-Mayer Rooms at the MGM Grand Hotel by Mrs. Helen Galvan and Mrs. Pat O'Mara of the Belle-East BPW Club (Belleville) for Illinois Federation members and guests.

Special guests included Miss Jean McCarrey of Villa Grove, Ill., past national president (1973-74); Mrs. Geraldine R. Eidson of Fort Worth, Tex., national vice president; and Mrs. Elizabeth H. Espinosa of Glen Echo, Md., formerly of St. Louis, national recording secretary.

Current Illinois Federation officers attending were Mrs. Catherine Burton of Collinsville, state president; Yvonne Hirsch of suburban Chicago, state president-elect; Miss Fidella Doolin of Carbondale, first vice-president; Mrs. Lucille Schott of Chicago, second vice-president; Coleen Forys of Rockford, treasurer; and Wilma K. Harpole of Mount Vernon, recording secretary. Past presidents Dorothy Fink and Dorothy Paddock also were present.

Among the states represented by their federation presidents or other state officers at the Illinois affair, each of whom was introduced, were South Carolina, Texas, Kentucky, Missouri, Indiana, Kansas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Alabama, Washington, New York, Indiana, District of Columbia, Utah, Kentucky, Florida, Arkansas, Idaho, South Dakota, New Mexico and North Carolina.

Mrs. Marie B. Bowden, Leesburg, Fla., the retiring National BPW president, conducted the business sessions, which included spirited election contests, presentation of awards and adoption of a national legislative platform.

Key issues included agreement to continue BPW involvement and financial support to gain ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment in states where legislatures have failed to approve the ERA bill.

Although optimistic about the final outcome of ERA, delegates were urged to redouble their efforts to gain approval in non-ratified states.

Thirty-four states have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment with an additional four states required for the amendment to become law.

It was noted that Nebraska and Tennessee which voted earlier approval have since attempted to rescind the legislative action.

Legal authorities, however, contend that such action is illegal, the conferees were advised. Similar attempts in other ratified states are anticipated in 1976 legislative sessions, it was reported.

Reports were heard on the new Housing and Community Development Act which bans sex discrimination in the making of federal mortgage loans, insurance guarantees or related assistance, and requires lenders to consider the combined incomes of both husband and wife.

The new Equal Credit Opportunity Act, effective in October, prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status, with respect to any aspect of a credit transaction, it was reported. Six bills to eliminate discrimination in insurance currently are before Congress.

All legislative issues concerning sex discrimination apply equally to both sexes, it was emphasized.

A recent Supreme Court decision held unconstitutional the granting of certain Social Security benefits to widows but not to widowers in the Weinberger versus Wiesenfeld case.

Bills are pending which would eliminate Social Security discrimination so as to provide benefits for husbands, widowers and fathers on the same basis as those for wives, widows and mothers, and to make payments of benefits to husbands and wives on the basis of their combined earnings.

Equal opportunity in education and employment by educational institutions; major Child and Family services; restoration of political rights to federal civilian employes; a study by the Commission of Civil Rights of certain aspects of the local, state and federal criminal justice systems as they affect women; and establishment of a National Center for the Prevention and Control of Rape were other legislative issues discussed at the convention.

Attending the 55th annual convention from the Granite City club were Mrs. Rosemary Baseden, president; Mrs. Sylvia Wright, president-elect; Miss Annellen Smith, immediate past president; and Ruth Milhouser, Barabra Hodges, Valerie Evenden, Verna Lengyel, Lois Wetton and Mrs. Genevieve Grady of Arlington, Tex., formerly of Granite City.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT. Mrs. Maxine R. Hays of Junction City, Oregon, who was installed at the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs' convention at the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas. Co-owner and manager of an insurance agency, Mrs. Hays also shares a business partnership with her husband, Ken. She is the mother of three children. More than 4,000 delegates, alternates and observers attended the 55th annual conference.

Party honors Mrs. Mowery

Mrs. Richard L. Mowery, the former Miss Elizabeth Pecher of Bad Windsheim, Germany, was guest of honor at a family gathering this week in the home of Mrs. Maxine Dacus, 2027a Cleveland Blvd.

The honoree was presented several wedding gifts, followed by a buffet luncheon. Decorations on the dessert table were carried out in the colors of the German flag, red, yellow and black. A large cake, frosted with the German salutation, "Welcome to Our Family," was the centerpiece.

Red and yellow candles and flowers were used in a black wrought-iron candleholder and the desserts also were prepared in matching colors.

Guests attending were Mrs. Ruth Hannebrink, Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Mowery and son, Jeffrey, and granddaughter, Melissa, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gordon and son, Matthew Scott; A. L. Thaber, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Werner of Edwardsville, Mr. and Mrs. John Mowery, Dupo, Mr. and Mrs. Lavon Taylor and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Adams of St. Clair, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Ross Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mowery, Mrs. Glenda Stubblefield and children, Maxine, Jerry and Dallas; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Adamson and children, Jimmy, Kelly and Kristi of Edwardsville.

Monika and Darrel Andrews, 148 Big Four Place, have as their guests her parents, Fritz and Gabe Kolsch and her sisters Daniele and Regina Kolsch of Germany. Her father is retired from the German Navy and are sightseeing in the United States while here.

Party honors Patrick Ramsey

A barbecue and swim party in honor of Patrick Alan Ramsey's 10th birthday were hosted this week by his mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Ramsey, 2419 Madison Ave.

Afternoon refreshments were served by the hostess. In the evening, the honoree and his guests were given rides on a motorcycle by John L. Logan, the former's uncle.

A cake, decorated with roses and a miniature 'cycle, was served with ice cream and soft drinks after the guest of honor opened his gifts.

Those present were Tommy Kowalski, Wally and Jody Fenton, Miss Theresa Buzick, Mrs. Sheri Smith and sons, Steve and Russ, Miss Kathleen Rose Ramsey, Chris and John Logan Jr., Mrs. Bertha Logan, grandmother of the honoree, and his father, Larry O. Ramsey.

Sister to mark silver jubilee

Sister Mary Raymunda Troeckler will observe her 25th anniversary as a member of the Congregation of the Sisters of the Third Order of St. Dominic of Springfield, Ill., on Aug. 5.

A native of this area, she presently is serving as treasurer of Sacred Heart Academy in Springfield. Previous assignments have included elementary teaching in Springfield, Chicago and Richmond, Mich., and secondary teaching in Chicago Heights and Springfield.

A silver jubilee celebration is being planned by her family on Aug. 3 and will include a concelebrated mass at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Madison, followed by a reception.

SISTER MARY TROECKLER

Large crowds at mission revival

Capacity attendance has been recorded each evening at the Gospel Mission, 2014 E. 20th St., where the first revival in five years is being conducted by the Rev. Dr. L. S. Bassoo, an evangelist from British Guiana.

Services will continue tonight and Friday, starting at 7 o'clock, at the "mission behind the mill," Mrs. Bethel J. Davis, superintendent, has announced. Additional parking is available at the rear of the building, she advised.

Speaking on Biblical predictions, Dr. Bassoo is focusing his remarks each evening upon such subjects as: "Coming world famine affecting all people"; "World War III to be fought in the Middle East"; "a shift in world economy to Europe and its ultimate destruction"; and "a near-disastrous agreement involving Israel."

Other predictions the Rev. Bassoo discusses, taken from Bible texts, concern the Arab countries, China, Japan, India, Africa and the Soviet Union.

Members of other area churches are among those attending the nightly services, Mrs. Davis said. Recorded attendance shows between 80 and 100 persons at each session.

At 7 p.m. Sunday, Dr. George A. Rosenthal of Belleville will be guest speaker at the Gospel Mission.

The public is invited to attend all services at the mission, the superintendent stated.

Women of Moose aid Mooseheart

Mrs. Dorothy Coy conducted installation ceremonies for Florence Bryson, Moosehaven chairman, Mrs. Martha Williams, Moosehart chairman, and Mrs. Billie Bagi, social service chairman, during a meeting of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 247, last week at the Moose Hall.

The three appointed officers were unable to attend an installation dinner-dance held earlier this month.

Miss Ruth Stover, senior regent, presided at the business session, attended by 41 members. She announced the Granite City chapter will host the district rally day on March 7, 1976.

Mrs. Jean Tellor, College of Regents committee chairman, reported a cash donation was contributed to a building fund to erect a new church at Mooseheart, the Moose-supported community for orphaned children, located near Elgin, Ill.

Her committee is planning a fund-raising project on Sept. 7, at the local Moose Lodge, to aid the College of Regents scholarship fund for children residing at Mooseheart, Mrs. Tellor said.

Members agreed to hold a monthly "birthday march" at the regular business sessions, with the honorees donating a penny for each year of their age. Those participating in the proposed march will receive a gift during the social hour.

Honored with birthdays in July were Cathy Seim, Nancy Hamilton, Irene Kuzman, Birdella Meyenburg, Mildred Walker, Billie Bagi, Ellen Pabst and Frances Polley.

Refreshments were served after the meeting and prizes were won by Veronica Wickham and Mary Driscoll.

Central Christian calls new minister

Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, has called the Rev. V. Dennis Rutledge to be its minister beginning Aug. 1.

Rev. Rutledge comes from Festus, Mo., where he has served the First Christian Church for six and one-half years. He will assume his new duties tomorrow.

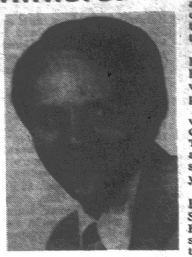

During that ministry, the church received 104 new members, constructed a sanctuary and educational unit, increased giving and became more involved in local services.

Rev. Rutledge received his bachelor of arts degree from Phillips University, and a master of divinity from the graduate seminary of Phillips University at Enid, Okla.

He continued graduate studies in clinical pastoral education at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

Rev. Rutledge is a member of the general board of the Christian Church in the United States and Canada. He has for four years served as chaplain and volunteer firefighter with the Festus and Crystal City fire departments.

The Rutledges have three children, Loretta, Pamela, and Deborah. Mrs. Rutledge, Joyce, is a student at the University of Missouri at St. Louis and has been active in the Christian Women's Fellowship in her congregation and district. Mrs. Rutledge has served as a Girl Scout Leader and a volunteer juvenile case worker.

Former rock singer here Sunday

Dallas Holm, youthful evangelist and a former rock singer, will make three appearances Sunday at Tri-City Park Tabernacle Assembly of God.

Holm will sing at 9:45 a.m., for the youth groups; at the 10:45 a.m. worship service and at the 7 p.m. evangelistic service.

A soloist with the David Wilkerson Youth Crusades of Dallas, Tex., Holm takes a personal interest in youngsters who have turned to drugs, noting that he "almost ended up in the same thing" himself.

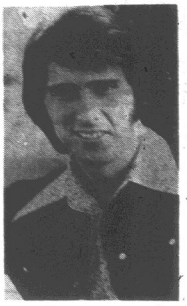

He is a former member of a rock group. "It was a lot of money and fun and it took a long time before I realized I wasn't ever going to accomplish anything," Holm said.

"I was raised in a Christian home and went to church, but somehow that all got lost in the shuffle. My pastor told me to take an honest look at myself and I didn't like what I saw. It was then I made a commitment of my life to Christ."

After leaving the rock group, Holm went to college to prepare for the ministry and began traveling to sing and tell his story in churches and schools. He joined the staff of a large church as minister to youth and from there was recruited to join the David Wilkerson Youth Crusades as soloist.

The youthful singer has appeared in many places, including the ghetto area of New York City.

The public is invited to attend Sunday's programs at the local church.

Mrs. Vicki Jacobs, local president, said visual aids and related information are available without cost to area residents applying at the Alton office. The report was given at a business session held in the library at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

In other action, Mrs. Nancy Pineda was appointed chairman of the chapter's newsletter, and a rummage sale held earlier this month as a fund-raising project was reviewed.

A new slide presentation was previewed prior to public showing. Organizations wishing to arrange for the slides to be shown may contact Pat Fenton, at 877-1197, it was reported.

The public is invited to attend all meetings of the local Right to Life group, Mrs. Jacobs said. The next session is set for Aug. 25 at the hospital library.

REV. RALPH SCHERRER

Associate pastor, the Rev. Conrad Motola, O.F.M., will continue to serve in his capacity.

TRI-CITY'S BELLEMORE STORE PRESENTS... "THE NEW CHECKOUT SYSTEM"

HOW IT MAKES SHOPPING EASIER FOR YOU.

Maybe you've seen it. Or heard about it from a friend.

There's a new kind of computer-assisted checkout system.

It can speed you through checkout faster.

It can mean quick and accurate pricing, right down to the penny.

It gives you an itemized receipt with the name and price of each item, so you can tell exactly what you bought and how much you paid for it.

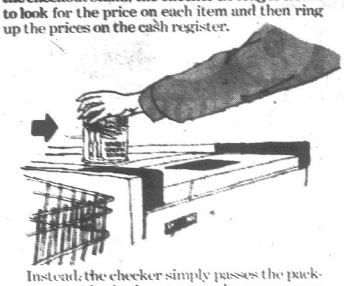

It collects summarized inventory and sales information and transmits it to our main computer each day. Then information from all our stores helps us figure out quickly what items we can offer you on special sale and what items we need to restock.

The new system involves a few changes in your present shopping habits—changes we think you'll like.

HERE'S HOW IT ALL WORKS . . .

The Automatic Ringup

When you bring the items you've selected to the checkout stand, the checker no longer needs to look for the price on each item and then ring up the prices on the cash register.

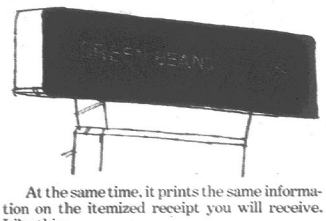

Instead, the checker simply passes the packages over a slot in the counter where a scanner "reads" a special symbol—the Universal Product Code (UPC)—printed on the package or label.

The checkout system verifies the UPC, which is made up of a number of bars that identify the manufacturer and the specific product, and instantly displays the description of the item and its price on an electronic screen and prints them on your itemized receipt.

For example, suppose it's a can of Green Giant Whole Green Beans.

When the scanner reads the UPC, the system quickly responds by flashing the description and price on an electronic display near the cash register. Like this:

At the same time, it prints the same information on the itemized receipt you will receive. Like this:

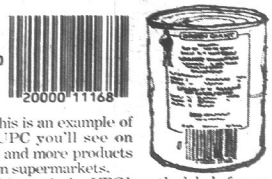

GREEN BEANS	.34

Meanwhile, the checker has pulled the can over the slot and placed it into your bag.

Since the checker doesn't have to read the price of coded items or ring them up on the cash register, your order can be checked out much faster.

And you should spend less time at the checkout counter.

The Universal Product Code (UPC)

This is an example of the UPC you'll see on more and more products sold in supermarkets.

This particular UPC is on the label of a can of Green Giant Whole Green Beans.

The bars are what the new checkout system reads. They correspond to the number code printed below them. Both the bars and the numbers, in effect, say the same thing: "This is a can of whole green beans made by Green Giant."

Grocery product manufacturers have agreed on this coding as the way to identify their products. Most of them have started printing it on the packages or labels of all the products they make—everything from beans to soap to floor wax.

What If There's No Bar UPC Code On The Package?

Especially in the first few months, some products will not yet have their manufacturer's UPC on the package.

In those cases, the checker will simply enter the information at the keyboard. These products will be identified on the display and on the itemized receipt as "GROCERY," "MEAT," or "BAKERY," for example—not as individual items.

What If the Price Is "2 For 65 Cents"?

When the price of a product is lower if you buy multiple units at one time, the system automatically figures out the correct price for you.

Let's say we've advertised a special of 2 cans of sweet peas for 65 cents.

The first can will be itemized at 33 cents, but the second will be only 32 cents. Total, 65 cents for two, as advertised. The two cans of peas don't even have to be together at the checkout. Your receipt might read like this:

BUTTERMILK	.43
SWEET PEAS	.33
KETCHUP	.37
SWEET PEAS	.32

Prices For All Store Items Are Posted On the Shelves

You'll notice that when a product carries a UPC, the price is not stamped on the package.

But for all products, the correct, up-to-date price, including unit pricing, is clearly shown on the shelves or over the bins. And it is also stored in the checkout system.

With the new itemized receipts provided by the checkout system, you have a permanent record of exactly what you bought and how much you paid for it.

Taxable Items Are Totaled Separately

After your order has been checked out by the system, it totals the amount due and prints it on your receipt. First, however, it figures the total tax due on only those items which are taxable.

How can you tell which items are taxable? By looking for the letter "T" after the price. For example:

BUTTERMILK	.43
TISSUES	.35	T
SWEET PEAS	.33
DIAL SOAP	.22	T
TAX DUE	.03
TOTAL	1.36

On this order, the second and fourth items are taxable, the first and third, buttermilk and sweet peas are not. The tax is not included in the price of the taxable items, but is added into the total due.

Items for which food stamps can be used in payment are sub-totaled separately. The end of your receipt might contain items like this:

TOTAL	16.26
FS BAL DUE	8.86
FS TEND	9.00
BAL DUE	7.40
CSH TEND	10.00
FS CHG	.14
CHG DUE	2.60

This means that your total order is $16.26. Of this amount, $8.86 is for food stamp items, and you gave, or tendered, $9.00 in food stamps in payment for those items. A balance of $7.40 is due in cash, and you gave $10.00 cash in payment for this balance. We gave you 14 cents change in food stamp credits and $2.60 change in currency.

Got Questions? Ask Us

However, if there's anything you don't understand, or don't like about the system, we ask you to tell us about it. Frankly. Talk to our manager or assistant manager. Or any of our personnel.

EPA rules deter industry, speaker tells Rotarians

"Negative ramifications of the over-zealous environmentalists of the 1960's are being felt now, particularly in Illinois," Richard H. Dykes, executive director of Illinois Metro East told the Wednesday noon meeting of the Madison-Venice Rotary club at the Madison Recrsation Center.

"The Illinois series of rules and regulations on air polution are most severe when compared to surrounding states and in many cases Illinois puts more restrictions on industries than the federal government requires," Dykes said.

"These environmental restrictions, not only cause hardship on existing industries, but keep much-needed industry out of Illinois, which of course means fewer jobs."

"It was great to jump on the environmental bandwagon a few years ago and it was popular to pass laws and make rules to protect the environment; but little or no attempt was made to analyze the negative ramification such as loss of jobs in industry and we here in Illinois are feeling the effects now," the speaker said.

Six points potential business and industry look at when they are considering an area are geographic location, transportation facilities, labor climate and availability, land, utilities and taxes.

The club celebrated the 25th birthday of Rotarian Albert Hudzik.

Rotarian Jack Friedman, chairman of the Rotary Information Committee, inducted four new members into the club; Frank Kierski, Henry Gray, Roy Jackson and Clarence Green.

GC beautician in national event

Mrs. Sheila Morgan of Granite City represented Illinois in the "Parade of States" segment at the 55th annual convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association held last week at Atlantic City, N. J.

The local beautician wore a white Indian costume and an appropriate coiffure which she personally created. She appeared in a setting using a white tepee and related decorations.

Mrs. Morgan earned the honor of appearing at the national convention by winning both the artist and model presentations at the Illinois Association's state convention last October. It is believed to be the first time a contestant achieved first place in both categories.

A member of the Elite Hairdressers Association of Granite City, Affiliate 33, Mrs. Morgan is employed at Earl's Coiffures and teaches students at the Granite City School of Beauty Culture.

Mrs. Dorothy Line of Granite City, a member of the Official Hair Fashion Committee and an instructor at the local beauty school, also attended the convention.

Carbohydrates good for body

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian

As concerned as I am with the gross amounts of fat many people allow to accumulate on their bodies, I am even more concerned with the quack diets some people try in an effort to lose weight.

A doctor said to me one time that if enough publicity was behind it, you could get some people to believe that body fat would dissolve by applying hot tar. That may be a little wild, but many of the methods actually being used are not much less weird.

A representative of one of the country's largest book-publishing firms actually admitted to me that what they look for in a diet to publish was "off-beat" — something "new and exciting." They felt absolutely no responsibility in determining whether the "diet" was nutritionally sound or whether it improved health.

That is why the "all protein diet" achieved prominence, which leads to the point of this column — the importance of carbohydrates.

Eliminating or drastically reducing carbohydrates in a diet greatly reduces the chances of your body receiving valuable nutrients and the necessary roughage it requires. In fact, I am greatly in favor of including all edible skins, whenever possible, in the diet.

If you are making a salad or serving fresh fruit, wash, but don't peel. You will retain more vitamins and minerals and roughage.

If the purpose of reducing is to improve health, energy and well-being, then the diet must provide these results.

It is true that all fruits and vegetables contain carbohydrates — starches and sugars — but if you are in need of a reduction in weight, you can help yourself by a selection of produce that are lower in carbohydrates.

To help you in your selection, I have listed fruits and vegetables according to their carbohydrate content.

Fruits: These are generally higher than vegetables in CHO (carbohydrate) with only three popular ones in the lowest category: watermelon, strawberries and cranberries.

The others you can include, even on a weight reduction program are:

grapefruit	pineapple
oranges	apricots
peaches	apples
pears	melons

Fruits to be avoided during weight loss are:

bananas	raisins
cherries	grapes
dates

Vegetables: The selection of vegetables during a weight loss should come from the following:

asparagus	tomatoes
lettuce	watercress
radishes	celery
mushrooms	string beans
spinach	cabbage
cucumber	broccoli
sauerkraut	squash

Vegetables to be avoided during weight loss are:

beets	potatoes
wax beans	yams
peas	carrots
corn

As you can see, even on a diet, you have a wide selection to choose from. Keep your servings small — one-half cup is considered a normal amount.

Do yourself a favor by getting acquainted with the beautiful array of fruits and vegetables available to you. Carbohydrates are the quickest source of energy known.

Madison creates new safety director post

The Madison City Council adopted a city budget of $1,458,855 for the 1975-76 fiscal year at a City Council meeting Monday evening.

The new budget is $396,693 higher than last year's budget and $21,037 over the tentative budget proposed to the council last week.

The council approved adding to the budget a Director of Public Safety salary at $14,416 with travel expense of $720.

"In the near future we hope to present a plan to streamline our operations," Mayor Mike Sasyk said.

"We will not fill the new position of Director of Public Safety for a while, but when we do he will coordinate the police, health, building and civilian defense departments."

"There are a lot of expenditures in the budget that we won't use due to lack of income, but these items must be put into the budget," he said.

"There is not enough money coming into the city to continue operating on a budget this high. Salaries are always increasing, and everything else keeps climbing. We need to do some streamlining. We can't raise taxes without a referendum and the public would not like that. We can get by this year but after that I just don't know," the mayor said.

"We are going to cut back some on personnel. We are not going to lay anyone off or fire anyone; we simply will not be filling vacations as they come up. I believe we can keep up the services to our citizens with less people by streamlining our operation," Sasyk said.

City employees will receive a $60 per month increase, with police sergeants receiving a $75 per month increase. City department heads will receive an $83 per month increase.

The largest departmental budget is for the police department, whose budget now is $322,834, a $79,123 increase over last year's budget.

A major part of the increase is due to a federal detective grant of $55,000 which the city receives. Although the grant is shared with Venice, administration of the funds is handled by the city of Madison.

The Director of Public safety salary of $14,416 and a car expense of $720 also was added to the police budget. A budget item of $8,500 for police automobiles was deleted from the police budget and transferred to revenue sharing accounts.

A $4,500 item for the codification and updating of city ordinances was added to the legal department Monday, raising the department's budget to $19,555, or $4,325 more than last year. A $400 travel expense was deleted from this year's budget.

The executive department budget is increased by $14,816, from $25,715 to $40,531. This includes $4,200 for the community development committee, a new budget item and an increase of $6,000 to the budget for an administrative assistant to the Mayor which went from a part time position at $3,000 last year to a full time position at $9,000.

The building inspector's department is increased by $12,090 from $9,370 to $21,420 this year. Included is $10,000 for building demolition and additional monies for title search and legal fees.

A new classification in the budget is a city clerk's department with a budgeted amount of $5,730. This expense previously was carried in the legislative department budget last year, which has been decreased to $30,600, this year, a cut of $4,480 from the department's $35,080 last year.

Other departments budgeted and the increase over last year are: fire department $68,103, increased $9,324; street and alley $169,198, up $34,317; refuse $37,787, up $17,984; legal $15,055, up $175; health and humane $5,580, up $800; sewer $33,793, up $743.

Finance and accounting $23,668, up $2,249; fire hydrant and water $5,400, up $800; insurance $77,056, up $5,000; summer youth program $2,500, up $900; contingent fund $5,000, up $4,000; bridge operation $16,000, up $200; industrial site $23,741, up $820; police commissioners $3,755, up $30.

The municipal building department budget has decreased by $4,515 to $21,194.

Items budgeted the same as last year are: street lighting, $30,000; elections, $1,575, and interest and judgements, $12,500.

Girl, 11, shot at home

Deborah Lynn Reeves, 11, of 2615 E. 24th St., is recuperating satisfactorily in St. Elizabeth Hospital after she was shot accidentally at the home of her mother, Mrs. Peggy Herzing, 2631 Edwards St., at 1:55 p.m. Monday.

Police investigating the incident say they believe several children were playing with a .38 caliber pistol in the home and it discharged accidentally.

Most of the bullet went into a wall, but a small piece of metal entered Miss Reeves' upper lip and lodged near her left ear.

A telephone operator told police she had been asked to summon an ambulance to that address for a shooting victim. Officers and ambulance attendants found Miss Reeves sitting on the living room couch bleeding from her upper lip. She said she had pain in her head.

She was taken by ambulance to the hospital where she was admitted in poor condition, but has since improved.

Police said three children, besides the victim, were in the home when the shooting occurred. Several guns, loose bullets and shotgun shells were found inside the home.

The gun believed used in the shooting was found in a bottom dresser drawer in a bedroom where one youth placed it after becoming afraid, officers believe.

Tries to force woman in car

A 27-year-old Granite City woman said as she was walking in the 1100 block of Niedringhaus Avenue, near the railroad tracks, at 9:40 p.m. Tuesday, a man displayed a knife and tried to force her into an auto.

She said the man approached her, grabbed her arm and held the knife at her side, ordering her to keep walking. She said she broke away and backed up a few steps, but the man stayed close to her while a nearby old black car, which had been parked nearby, started toward them.

The driver of the car stopped beside the man with the knife, opened the car door and waited for the other man, she related. The man with the knife told the young woman to get in the car and she said she refused.

When several other cars approached on Niedringhaus Avenue, the man with the knife got into the car and the two men drove away toward the downtown area.

VILLA DRIVE BURGLARY

About $60 to $100 cash, an outboard boat motor and a set of leather-bound first edition Teddy Roosevelt books were stolen during a burglary at the home and garage of Tom Sparks, 46 Villa Drive, which was reported at 9:15 p.m. Monday. The house was ransacked. A rear window to the den was forced open to gain entry.

Two men hurt seriously in traffic crash

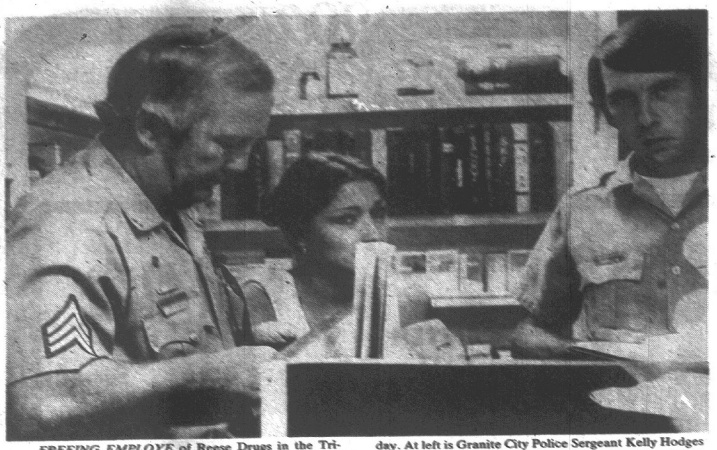

Two men were injured seriously when their pickup truck and a tractor-trailer were involved in an accident on Route 111 at Interstate 70 at 2 a.m. Wednesday.

Witnesses reported the tractor-trailer was turning left from northbound Route 111 onto westbound Interstate 70 and the northbound pickup struck the left rear of the trailer.

State police were unable to determine which of the two men in the pickup truck was driving. Removed from the wreckage were the owner of the vehicle, Claude Davis, 22, and another man, Dennis Beamer, 20, both of St. Louis.

They were brought by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital and were transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis. Beamer suffered multiple injuries and Davis suffered severe head injuries, it was reported.

Tom Cooper, 23, Selah, Wash., the driver of the tractor-trailer, was not injured.

Dies of gunshot wound

Walter J. Colligan, 38, of 1057 Ruth St., was pronounced dead at his home at 4:37 p.m. Tuesday of a gunshot wound to his chest.

Relatives told authorities Mr. Colligan shot himself in front of two small children. The shooting occurred in a bedroom in the northeast corner of his home and he was found on the bed with a wound to the left side of his chest. A .22 caliber handgun was found near his left side.

He was pronounced dead on the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner Edward Werner. A neighbor said Mr. Colligan's wife, Mrs. Geraldine Colligan, came running out of the house yelling, "Come quick. Walter shot himself."

The neighbor said she checked his pulse and, being unable to find any signs of life, she called the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

Another neighbor said he was summoned to the home by Mr. Colligan's stepchildren who informed him of the shooting. He said he kept the children outside until deputies arrived.

Mr. Colligan was employed as a carpenter by M. H. Wolfe & Co., contractors. He was a lifelong Granite City resident.

He is survived by his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Colligan Sr.; four sisters, Mrs. Robert (Mary) Sido of Edwardsville, Mrs. Orville (Catherine) Hommert of Granite City, Mrs. Richard (Patricia) Vorvald of Florissant, Mo., Mrs. Anthony (Margaret) Zagar of Troy, and two brothers, Henry Colligan Jr. and Edward Colligan.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

The Bible School will run from Aug. 4 through 15, every week day, from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Seek car used by radio thieves

Granite City police are searching for a black 1968 Chevrolet with primer paint on it and no license plates, believed used in the theft of a $300 citizens' band radio from the car of Conrad Sheppard, 2610 Missouri Ave., on the K-Mart parking lot at 2:30 p.m. Monday.

Several witnesses said they saw the car stop, one young man with long hair get out, break the right vent window of Sheppard's auto, open the door and remove the radio.

The thief got into the car with a second long-haired youth and they attempted to leave. The car stalled two or three times before they were able to get it moving. The auto left south on Nameoki Road. Police were unable to locate it.

It was described as a two-door Biscayne with black primer paint on it.

Long Lake Board to study budget

The meeting is to adopt and place on public display the district's 1975-76 fiscal year tentative budget.

What makes faucets squeal?

By GENE GARY

Q. Could you please tell me what makes my hot water faucets squeal at a high pitch when turned on? How do you correct it? — Rosalie K.

A. My guess is that wear and tear has probably caused the washers to become loose, also roughened, to such an extent that the water pressure makes it noisy. It may also be due to another part inside the faucet becoming a little loose. The noise should stop when another faucet is turned on because the pressure is lessened thereby. You could test this to see if the noise stops when turning on another faucet.

I recommend removal and examination of the washers, and replacement if they are worn. While the washer is out, feel the seat with your finger — this is where the washer rests. If it is rough, it should be smoothed. Otherwise, the new washer will be similarly roughened. For this job, a seat dressing tool, an inexpensive and useful tool which you can get at plumbing supply houses, is best to use. It may also be that tightening the screw holding the washers may be enough to stop the noise.

Also, whistling, or squeals, can be due to the speed of water flowing through too-small pipes. It is most common at bends and tees in the pipe and can usually be corrected with a pressure reducing valve.

Q. I would like to know how to remove veneer from a dining table that has been ruined? — Mrs. Ann G.

A. To remove the veneer, remove the varnish down to bare wood. Then apply cloths dampened with hot water. When the water has penetrated through the wood veneer and softened the glue, the sheet can be lifted off with a putty knife. If you wish to replace this, there is a thin plastic, veneer-like sheet with a wood grain that could be cemented over the wood core after the veneer has been removed.

Q. We used birch plywood for doors on cabinets in the living room. We also used top-quality paint for finishing on a smooth, clean surface. But soon after application, the paint began to crack. What causes this? — G.R.M.

A. Birch plywood requires a special type of sealer first, which is available from plywood dealers. Remove the present enamel down to bare wood, then apply the special sealers. But be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions.

Boosting steel output monumental, costly task

Following is the text of a statement by the American Iron and Steel Institute before the Ways and Means Committee on Tax Reform, presented Monday in Washington:

The domestic iron and steel industry is a basic and major segment of the United States economy. It is a major employer—approximately 750,000 employes, including coal and iron ore mining, quarrying and related transportation employment and in 1974 it paid almost $10 billion in wages and salaries.

By the early 1980's, the industry estimates the need for 30 million tons of additional raw steel production capacity. When operational, this new capacity will require 85,000 to 90,000 full time employes for mining through steel finishing operations and a substantial number of job opportunities for supplier and other types of ancillary industries.

Because they are basic to most other major industries, steel products also support a substantial volume of employment for the entire country. Finally on the employment point, construction and installation of the facilities to produce this additional steel requirement, plus the facilities required to maintain present production capacity will entail substantial immediate employment requirements.

For the future, the steel industry faces a substantial task in providing the steel products and the employment opportunities required by our growing economy. If our economy is to continue to grow at a healthy rate, a viable steel industry is mandatory.

Meeting the increased demand of 30 million tons of additional raw steel capacity, plus replacing and maintaining present productive capacity, and meeting growing environmental requirements will require expenditures of approximately $5 billion per year in 1975 dollars over the next six to nine years. This figure is almost three times the average amount of capital expenditures made during the prior ten-year period, a period during which there was practically no net addition to raw steel capacity.

In contrast to these expenditure requirements, in 1973 and 1974, its highest volume years, the industry generated an average annual cash flow of approximately $2.8 billion. Assuming this profit performance can be repeated consistently in the future and, also, that the industry maintains the higher debt to equity ratios of recent years a capital shortfall in the magnitude range of $1.5 billion per year is apparent.

The primary effort for reducing this projected shortfall must be directed toward continued improvement in the industry's profitability. That improvement began in 1973 and 1974 when, after several years of returns at or near the lowest levels of all industrial groups, the steel industry achieved a return on equity equal to the average of all manufacturing industries.

Further improvement will require realistic government policies which avoid price controls and which help counteract noncompetitive practices of foreign steel producers supported by their home governments. The achievement of reasonable rates of return will maximize borrowing opportunities and, for the long-term, could permit the industry to obtain some part of its shortfall in funds from the equity market.

These efforts at improving cash flow must be supported by federal income tax policies that specifically encourage capital formation, particularly for those industries such as steel which require significant amounts of capital.

These matters and others, including an economic history and details of a number of tax matters affecting the industry and recommendations for tax reform are set forth in the study, "Steel Industry Economics and Federal Income Tax Policy" which is appended hereto.

The major revisions of the federal income tax law that the industry recommends are as follows:

Capital Recovery:

The steel industry is greatly concerned about obtaining an effective capital recovery system, and is aware that certain past tax policies have been moving in that direction through the evolution of accelerated depreciation in the Revenue Code of 1954, investment credit and guideline depreciation in 1962, and ADR in 1971.

It is in the steel industry's interest, and the nation's interest, to insure that this evolution continues through immediate legislation which would substantially reduce the period of capital recovery for equipment and industrial buildings within the framework of the ADR system.

A major long-term goal of federal income tax policy should be the enactment of a simplified and flexible capital recovery system which would permit the cost of all productive industrial investment to be recovered over a period as short as five years, utilizing present depreciation methods and providing an election to the taxpayer as to the timing of the deduction.

Industrial buildings should be included in this concept because in the steel industry they are highly specialized for the industrial activity they contain, and in fact are frequently integrated with the equipment they house. In addition, because of the extended construction periods of up to five years for some projects, the allowance of the deduction should be permitted as capital funds are expended rather than delayed until the project is placed in service (a concept adopted in 1975 for investment tax credit).

Investment Tax Credit:

The investment tax credit has been an important measure to the steel industry since its enactment in 1962 and is recognized as a vital element in respect to capital formation. Its effectiveness, however, has been diluted somewhat because of the fact that since its enactment it has been suspended on one occasion and repealed on another. These actions created uncertainties as to the permanency and availability of the credit in planning for future capital requirements.

If the investment credit is to effectively accomplish the objective of encouraging capital formation required by industry for investment in productive facilities, it must be retained as a permanent part of the tax laws and the rate should be increased to 12 per cent. Furthermore, the credit should be applicable as expenditures are made, rather than when facilities are placed in service.

Pollution Control Facilities:

The requirement to protect our environment against the adverse effects of manufacturing the goods to meet the product demand of our society will continue to aggrevate the capital shortage by diverting capital funds from investment in productive plant and equipment. The magnitude of the problem is reflected in the Arthur D. Little study which concludes that the steel industry will have to devote approximately $13.1 billion or $1.5 billion per year in 1975 dollars for pollution control equipment over the next years.

These figures exclude annual costs of operating those pollution control facilities which, based on historical data, would approximate $1 billion per year. The $1.5 billion per year is comprised of $1 billion for existing facilities and $500 million for new facilities. The capital expenditures for pollution control facilities constitute about 30 per cent of the industry's projected capital expenditure requirements over the next nine years.

It is apparent from these data that more realistic tax treatment of the costs of pollution control facilities is required in order to minimize the adverse effects on capital formation and the significant adverse impact on employment. Congress has previously recognized the validity of special treatment for pollution control facilities in the Tax Reform Act of 1969 when it provided for the amortization of the cost of these facilities over a 60-month period.

This treatment, however, for all practical purposes, proved to be ineffective for the steel industry. This results from the fact that the present value of depreciation plus the investmeny credit approximates the present value of a five-year amortization allowance. What Congress should now do is to enact legislation which would permit all expenditures for air and water pollution control facilities to be deductible as incurred, the reasoning being that these expenditures are not capital in nature because they do not, in a physical sense, prolong the life of the related asset or assets nor do they add to productive capacity; and, most significantly, they are generally not income-producing.

If this cannot be accomplished immediately, then an interim step should be taken to reduce the recovery period, while allowing accelerated methods of depreciation and the full application of the investment credit. Congress should also more precisely define "pollution control facility" so the incentives intended will not be denied by unduly restrictive administrative interpretation.

Encouragement of Discovery and Exploitation of Raw Materials:

In order to provide an adequate supply of the raw materials (principally coal, limestone and iron ore) required to meet future demands for steel, sources of raw materials not presently in existence must be developed. Since these are wasting assets, those currently being consumed must be replaced with newly-developed sources, and additional new sources must be developed to supply increased demand in the future. Presently, the available supply of quality raw materials is inadequate to take care of high-level operations even for existing capacity. It is imperative that new sources of these raw materials be developed. Since it takes several years to develop a mine and the supporting processing facilities, this development should start immediately.

In addition to time, the development of these new sources will require large amounts of capital funds which will have to be obtained during a period when available funds are being actively sought by all types of industry.

Tax policies applying to these raw materials will be a major factor influencing the commitment of capital funds and, therefore, the development of new sources of raw materials which are essential to the maintaining of a strong steel industry and the furtherance of the strength and economic well-being of our nation.

We recommend that provisions of the tax law concerning these raw materials include:

Percentage Depletion—The percentage depletion allowance has proven effective in quantifying in economic terms the unique attributes of the extractive industries. It should be retained without geographical restriction at least at the same levels existing prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1969.

Domestic Iron Ore—Exploration expenditures should be currently deductible and not subject to recapture. Development expenditures should continue to be currently deductible. Exploration and development of these raw materials is similar to research and development to procure and develop new technology, and all such expenditures should be currently deductible and not subject to recapture.

The effectiveness of the percentage depletion allowance should not be impaired by the minimum tax. Corporations engaged in producing raw materials should never have been subjected to a dilution of the percentage depletion allowance by the imposition of the minimum tax in regard to this allowance.

Foreign Iron Ore—Our nation is not and cannot be self-sufficient in raw materials. The steel industry is dependent upon foreign source iron ore for much of its domestic steel production, particularly for coastal plants. Mining investments must be made in the country where the ore deposits exist in direct competition with investors from other developed countries seeking raw materials for their home steel industries.

According to a recent study by the accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, mining companies operating under the tax systems of other developed countries are in a better position to compete for mineral concessions than their United States counterparts because their tax systems permit a higher average return on equity investment than our tax laws do.

Our tax laws should not be changed to widen this disparity but rather should be reformed in a manner that will enhance the competitive posture of our corporations in obtaining these needed sources of raw materials. We recommend that:

1. The foreign tax credit which prevents the double taxation of income earned abroad should be retained with the election of either the overall or the per-country limitation. Furthermore, the restriction on the use of foreign tax credits arising from mining operations which is provided in Internal Revenue Code Section 901(e) represents an unrealistic segregation of income when applied to integrated steel operations, and should be eliminated.

2. In order to encourage investment in the much-needed iron ore deposits abroad, the investment tax credit should be made applicable to direct foreign investments in machinery and equipment, etc. by U. S. taxpayers.

3. Because of the uncertainties inherent in investments in foreign countries, particularly the developing countries in which significant iron ore reserves are likely to be found, capital recovery periods at least as short as those allowable for comparable domestic investment should be allowed to U. S. taxpayers operating abroad.

4. In order to encourage further exploration for minerals abroad, foreign exploration expenditures should be deductible as incurred.

5. Earnings of foreign corporations should not be subject to taxation in the United States until they are distributed to United States shareholders as dividends.

Coal—The energy shortage has created a substantially increased demand for coal. The steel industry must now acquire this raw material in a market where others are competing to acquire it as an energy source. Reliance on coal as a major element in resolving our growing energy shortage, combined with an increased demand for coal as a raw material in the steel industry, dictates that new metallurgical and non-metallurgical coal mines must be developed. To expedite the accomplishment of providing this vastly increased supply of coal, the depletion rate for coal should not be reduced.

In recent years the steel industry has greatly increased its debt. Present debt-to-equity ratios combined with the competition of large government debt financing make borrowing an extremely costly source of capital funds. Sale of equity securities at prices considered unrealistic when compared to underlying book values per share is not responsible management.

The capital funds required to modernize and expand the steel industry must come to a large extent from the cash flow that the industry is able to retain and reinvest in productive facilities.

In order to obtain the capital funds needed to acquire the productive facilities and create productive jobs, steps should be taken to increase the amount of cash flow industry can retain and reinvest. Other industrialized nations have already recognized this as a desirable goal and taken steps to provide incentives in their tax systems to attain this goal.

Japan, Germany, Italy and France, all nations which compete with the domestic steel industry, have provisions in their tax laws to minimize or eliminate the onerous double taxation of dividends and enable a greater retention of cash flow in their corporations to enable the corporations to reinvest a greater portion of the cash flow in additional productive facilities to create more productive jobs.

The steel industry recommends that changes in our tax laws be enacted to maximize the retention and reinvestment of cash flow in productive facilities and productive jobs. An effective means of fostering the retention and reinvestment of this cash flow would be to:

1. Reduce the corporation income tax rate and 2. Provide a deduction to the corporation for dividends paid or provide a lower income tax rate to corporations on the income distributed as dividends by the corporation.

The enactment of the minimum tax was designed to prevent individuals subject to our highly progressive individual income tax rates from deliberately structuring the timing of deductions so as to lessen or eliminate tax liability.

Since corporations are subject to a flat 48 per cent tax rate, the problem to which the minimum tax was addressed does not arise in the case of corporations. The application of the minimum tax to corporations without the benefit of hearings, has subjected corporations to a tax burden that discourages capital formation at the very time when incentives are needed to encourage capital formation to construct facilities and create jobs.

We urge the repeal of the minimum tax rate with respect to corporations. If corporations must be included, then in no event should they be denied a full deduction for regular income tax liability in the computation of minimum tax liability.

Further, we recommend that excess regular income tax liability generated in a year should not only be permitted to be carried forward but should also be allowed as a carryback for all years covered by the minimum tax. Finally, percentage depletion arising from the operation of an extractive process, as opposed to passive investment, should be deleted from the computation of the minimum tax.

$56,950 grant for veterans program

The veterans' cost of instruction program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been awarded a $56,950 grant by the Veteran's Programs branch of the U. S. Office of Education.

Terry Campbell, director of the program at SIUE, said, "The grant was given to the university solely for the purpose of serving veterans."

According to Campbell, required services specified by the grant include: the operation of an on-campus full-time office of veterans' affairs, on-campus counseling services for veterans, and remedial education programs such as the tutorial program which provides money for the hiring of tutors.

Campbell added, "We also administer the veterans' outreach program whereby we contact veterans in the community to help them with their problems and try to interest them in taking advantage of the educational benefits offered them."

The grant is the third one awarded to the program and will terminate on June 30, 1976.

Driver charged after accident

Gary Bilna, 21, of 2328 Waterman Ave., was charged with reckless driving and of driving while under the influence of drugs after his auto struck two parked vehicles and a stop sign and drove through two yards at Terrace Lane and Cottage Avenue Monday.

Officers alleged Bilna's southbound car struck the rear of the parked van of Elmer Neuman, 1551 Cottage Ave., pushing it into a tree. Bilna's auto then struck a car belonging to Neuman, damaging it.

Bilna's auto then allegedly backed into the street, drove south again, knocked down the stop sign at the corner and went through the yard of Elmo Hinson, 1538 Cottage Ave., tearing up the grass, police reported.

The Bilna auto circled through Hinson's yard, crossed Cottage Avenue and then went through Neuman's yard before returning onto Cottage Avenue and spinning around, it was alleged. It came to rest half in the street and half into Neuman's yard, witnesses said.

BURGLARY ON BENTON

A German beer stein containing about $5 worth of change was all that was believed stolen during a burglary at the home of Eric Skouby, 1939 Benton St., which was reported this week. Entry was gained by prying open a basement window and forcing a door from the basement to the first floor.

'Eagles' draw 30,000 and problems at MRF

Close to 30,000 rock music fans—the second largest crowd in the seven-year history of the Mississippi River Festival—jammed the festival grounds Tuesday night at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, causing numerous problems before, during and after the three-hour concert featuring the rock group, "The Eagles."

SIUE officials initially recorded the crowd at 29,700, but said the attendance figure could go well over the 30,000 mark when all reports are compiled from the 41 ticket offices.

More than 34,000 packed the festival site in 1971 for a performance by "The Who," a British rock group, which is the MRF's top attendance figure to date.

Traffic was among the worst problems of the evening as backups were occurring on campus roads as early as 6:30 p.m.—two hours before showtime.

The bulk of the traffic came from the Granite City, St. Louis and Alton areas, officials said, noting that backups extended as far back as the Highway 111 exit on Interstate 270, a distance of three miles from the SIUE turnoff on Illinois 157.

Madison County deputies and SIUE security personnel were kept busy until 3 a.m. Wednesday, untangling the traffic jams leaving the festival.

Tuesday night's concert crowd kept the SIUE Health Services staffers busy until after midnight, treating bruises, cuts, scrapes and other injuries from flying bottles, broken glass and fights.

Crises Intervention, which handles drug and alcohol problems, also reported heavy business. Edwardsville city ambulances made nine runs to the festival site beginning at 10:20 p.m. Few of those involved in various incidents were seriously hurt, authorities said.

OPEN HOUSE. Art students in Granite City's summer school for "enriched" fourth, fifth and sixth graders stand behind ceramic sculptures they made during the summer session, held for seven weeks at Coolidge Junior High School. Pictured in front row left to right, are Lori Roach, Kathy Toussaint, Kristi Rebstock, Theresa Patton, Julia Hay, Lori Davis and Lori Forrest. Second row, Mrs. Phyllis Weiss, teacher, and Diane Garrison.

Six hurt in 2-car crash

Six persons were injured when the cars of Mrs. Elizabeth Barzoff, 21, of 1304 Iowa St., Madison, and Janet Headen, Jacksonville, collided on Madison Avenue at 19th Street at 12:20 p.m. Tuesday.

All of the injured were in Mrs. Barzoff's auto. She was taken by ambulance to the hospital with an injury to her left hand and she was released after x-rays were taken.

Miss Daleen Fisher, 12, of 119 Wilson Park Lane, a passenger, also was taken by ambulance to the hospital with an abrasion to her right lower leg. She was released after treatment and x-rays.

Also treated at the hospital was Steve Chosich, 4, of 2233 Edwards St., who was thrown against the back of the front seat and suffered abrasions to his left upper thigh. X-rays were taken of his skull, chest and left leg and he was released.

Other passengers in the car who were injured, but did not require hospital treatment, were: Kathy Frazier, 21, of 1606 Sixth St., Madison; Vince Fisher, 11, of 119 Wilson Park Lane, and Christy Chosich, 5, of 2233 Edwards St.

Thief escapes with $1,800

A thief took a total of $1,800 from the pockets of a Granite City man at the bus stop bench at 19th Street and Edison Avenue at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Robert Still, who resides at the YMCA, said he was sitting on the bench and a man sat next to him and began asking him about bus schedules.

Still said the man then reached into Still's trousers and removed two large rolls of $20 bills and ran west on 19th Street into the alley between Edison and Delmar Avenues.

Still recalled telling one man recently that he had enough money with him to cash a $1,000 check and he showed the money to the man. Police believe the man to whom Still spoke previously "set up" the robbery, although he was not directly involved.

Robber wears pantyhose to disguise face

An armed robber wearing pantyhose over his head took an undertermined amount of cash from the register at the Sonic Service station, 1817 Madison Ave., at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday.

An employe said the man entered from the rear of the station and displayed a single-barreled, sawed-off shotgun.

He asked the employe where the cash register was and the employe said he kept ducking down to keep from being seen by passing motorists.

The robber ordered the employe into the restroom and told him not to move for three minutes. He then took the money and left through the rear door, according to the employe.

Simpson-Miller wedding at St. Elizabeth Church

Miss Kathleen Marie Miller, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Miller, 2577 Boyle Ave., and Cary Richard Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Simpson, 209 Greenway Drive, were married in a double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. on July 3 at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence J. Mattingly officiated.

Soloist Roger Wilson played the guitar, accompanied at the organ by Jeff Sherman. Nuptial selections included "The Wedding Song," "Sunrise, Sunset," "Wedding March," "All Good Gifts," "Follow Me" and "Ave Maria."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza over taffeta designed along semi-princess lines and featuring rows of floral lace on the bodice and skirt.

Matching lace motifs accented the high collar and long sheer sleeves and enhanced the chapel train.

She wore a Juliet cap of Venise lace to secure a lace-bordered fingertip veil. She carried a nosegay of white carnations, centered with white daisies and blue baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Patricia Barbieri, chose an Empire-style dress of blue and white checked dotted swiss voile over satin. A white sash encircled the high-rise waist, tying in a bow at the back. The long skirt terminated at the hemline in a ruffled flounce.

Bridesmaids Barbara Miller and Pamela Simpson, sisters of the bridal couple, and Susan Miller, a cousin of the bride, wore identical gowns in yellow, mint green and pink.

Each attendant held a nosegay of daisies and baby's breath in shades to match her dress.

Laura Nesbit, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a long white dotted swiss dress with a blue bow at the Empire waist and short puff sleeves.

Michael Waldo attended the groom as best man. Walter Reinhardt, Larry Miller, a brother of the bride, and Greg Gauen served as groomsmen and ushers. Thomas Miller, a brother of the bride, was the ringbearer.

After the ceremony, guests were received by the newlyweds at a reception in the church hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner in their home.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Miller selected a long gown of peach colored lace and knit made with long sleeves.

The groom's mother was attired in a full-length pink chiffon dress designed with a short flared sleeve.

Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

A graduate of Granite City High Schoool North, the bride is employed in the offices of a St. Louis law firm.

Her husband also graduated from North High School and is now working at American Steel Foundries.

MR. AND MRS. CARY SIMPSON. They were united in marriage in an evening ceremony at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church. The former Miss Kathleen Marie Miller, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Miller, 2577 Boyle Ave.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIS KNUTSON, whose wedding took place in the Waioli Chapel in Honolulu, Hawaii. The bride is the former Miss Sheila Kathryn Gibbs, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Gibbs, 2646 Whippoorwill Lane.

Waioli Chapel scene of Knutson-Gibbs nuptials

The Waioli Chapel in Honolulu, Hawaii, was the scene of the wedding on July 12 of Miss Sheila Kathryn Gibbs, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Gibbs, 2646 Whippoorwill Lane, and Willis F. Knutson, son of Kermit Knutson Sr., Sauk Rapids, Minn., and Mrs. Winona Melander of Mesa, Ariz.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Craig Reynolds.

For her wedding, the bride selected a floor-length gown designed with a V-neckline and fitted bodice, accented with lace and satin. The long shepherdess sleeves were deeply cuffed and trimmed with satin bands and tiny covered buttons.

Her slightly full skirt terminated at the hemline with a gathered flounce. She wore a band of baby's breath and greenery in her hair.

The bridal bouquet was made up of purple Cattleya and Vanda orchids intermingled with baby's breath and greenery and festooned with white streamers. Both the bride and groom wore a maile lei.

Miss Judy Scheu, maid of honor, chose a floral patterned gown in lavender, green and white hues fashioned in Empire style with a long gathered skirt. Smocking enhanced the bodice, made with a V-neckline, and the cuffs of the long shepherdess sleeves.

She wore sprigs of baby's breath in her hair and her flowers were identical to the bridal bouquet. Double orchid leis were worn by the maid of honor and best man.

Elect Davis to head Long Lake fire board

Harold Davis, 2230 Shirlwin Drive, was elected Thursday night as president of the Long Lake Fire Protection District Board, the taxing body which supports the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department.

Lloyd Miller Jr. was named treasurer of the fire commissioners and the newly-seated member, Irene Karlechik, was elected secretary of the three-member board.

The board accepted a letter from its attorney William Schooley in which Schooley said his busy schedule is making it difficult for him to fulfill his duties to the fire district. He suggested the commissioners consider hiring another attorney to replace him.

The board discussed the preparation of the district's annual budget and tax levy. The commissioners are to request a meeting in the near future with the firemen's budget committee to begin work on the budget.

New building code for mobile homes

All manufacturers who sell mobile homes in Illinois will be required to comply with the structural, plumbing, heating and electrical system requirements of the state's new Mobile Home Building Code which became effective this month.

Until the enactment of the Illinois Mobile Home Safety Act in 1974, Illinois had no regulations governing the construction of mobile homes sold in the state. Without such regulations, dealers and purchasers had no assurance that the mobile homes sold in Illinois were free of structural defects.

Under the new legislation, all manufacturers who sell mobile homes in Illinois are required to submit to the Illinois Department of Public Health, plans, specifications, quality control manuals and outlined construction details for review.

If the plans meet state requirements, the state health department issues seals and certificates of compliance to the manufacturer. A seal is affixed to each mobile home, and a certificate is given to each person who purchases a mobile home in Illinois.

Any manufacturer who fails to comply with the state's code will be prohibited from selling mobile homes in Illinois.

"Anyone purchasing a mobile home in Illinois should look for an Illinois seal on the unit, unless the home contains a seal from Wisconsin, Minnesota or Indiana. Since these states already have mobile home regulations that are the same as those adopted in Illinois, mobile home seals from these three states are acceptable in Illinois.

A mobile home purchaser in Illinois should, however, receive a certificate of compliance, no matter where the home was manufactured.

These seals and certificates are an assurance to the dealer, as well as the homeowner, that the home has been constructed in accordance with the Illinois code.

Dr. Joyce Lashof, director of the state health department, said she is "very pleased" that Illinois now has a Mobile Home Safety Code. "The popularity of mobile homes has been increasing the past few years," she said, adding that more than 10,000 of them were sold in Illinois during 1974.

"There are an estimated 175,000 mobile homes now in the state, Dr. Lashof said, "which means that nearly 440,000 Illinoisans are mobile home dwellers; and we expect that number will increase each year."

Special SIUE fall classes

The English language and literature department of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer during the fall quarter several sections of freshman composition for students with special needs or interests, according to Betty Richardson, assistant chairperson of the department.

Developmental sections of freshman composition designed for students who have low entrance exam scores in language skills and for students who have had extreme difficulties with composition courses in the past will be among the special offerings this fall.

There also will be sections of freshman composition for students who have not been in school for several years and feel they need some re-orientation, she said.

Two sections of freshman composition are designed for non-native speakers of the English language. Another section will be offered for business majors or students interested in the field of business.

Special sections of freshman composition also will be offered this fall for students enrolled concurrently in another course. Freshman composition sections will be available for concurrent registration with either a Philosophical Masterpieces course or with Literary Masterpieces of Antiquity. This will provide an opportunity for students enrolled in the two courses to write papers conjointly and benefit from the comments and observations of both teachers, Prof. Richardson said.

For more information on these or other courses, prospective students may contact David Butler, director of freshman English, or the English language and literature department.

Most of the events reflect the trials the nation has faced through the years and allow the spectator to appreciate the greatness of the country today," Congressman Price said.

The booklet may be obtained by writing Representative Melvin Price, 2468 Rayburn HOB, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Boys, 17, face burglary charge

Kenneth Aurand, 17, of Rural Route 2, Box 1170d, Granite City, and Pierre Menard, 17, of 13 Paul Drive, were charged with burglary after a man alleged seeing them running from the home of Freda Scott, 188 Briarmoor Drive, this week.

A neighbor chased the boys, caught them and held them for police, it was alleged. A northwest bedroom window screen had been removed and the window forced open to gain entry to the Scott home, police said.

A tape recorder and speaker were found outside under the window and a rifle and scope were found in the rear yard with another tape player and two speakers. Found over the fence where the chase occurred was a microphone, a stop watch and a wristwatch, all allegedly taken from the home.

Labor plans exhibit as bicentennial project

Illinois Labor will celebrate the nation's Bicentennial Anniversary with a traveling exhibition of photographs of workers seen performing their jobs.

The project called, "On the Job in Illinois Labor History Society (ILHS) in collaboration with the Illinois State AFL-CIO.

The project is funded, in part, by the Illinois Bicentennial Commission and the Illinois Humanities Council. Labor organizations throughout the state are contributing matching funds.

In effect, the exhibition will open the doors of the mines, mills, and factories of the state, so that the public can see how working men and women turn the wheels of industry. Historical photographs will be included to show how the nature of work and the atmosphere of the workplace have changed over the generations.

"The purpose of the project is to give the public a strong visual understanding of the role of labor in this technological society," ILHS president Leslie F. Orear said. Orear is with the headquarters staff of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.

Photographs depicting people at their work in all phases of industry will be collected in the first phase of the project. The collection will be placed in the archives of the Illinois State Historical Library in Springfield as a resource for future generations.

Pictures will be selected from the collection for the exhibition, scheduled to open in March 1976 in the Chicago Public Library Cultural Center and the Illinois State Museum in Springfield. The exhibition then will travel through the state at the invitation of labor and community groups.

Public forums on the topic, "working in America," will be held in conjunction with the exhibition.

The project has appealed to unions, management and the public to contribute photographs, both old and new.

Armyworm damages some corn

By DAVE FISCHER
Farm Extension Adviser

Fall armyworm damage is showing up in several fields of late planted corn in Madison County.

Farmers should start checking corn fields for feeding damage of the fall armyworm. Typical damage of the fall armyworm is larvae feeding in the whorl of the plant giving the plant a very ragged appearance.

The fall armyworm larvae is a grey to brown color with a dark brown head. The larvae have three yellowish-white hairlines down the back from head to tail. On the sides is a fairly wide dark stripe and next to it a somewhat wavy, lighter colored stripe. The most distinguishing characteristic of the fall armyworm is a very prominent upside down Y on the front of its head.

The fall armyworm does not leave the plant to hide in the soil during the daytime as the true armyworm. The true armyworm hides in the soil during the daytime and feeds on the plant at night.

The decision as to when to use some type of control is a difficult one. Normally, if 20 per cent or more of the plants show feeding damage and the worms still are present, control measures will be beneficial. Granules are preferred over sprays when the worms are deep in the whorl. Be sure to apply the insecticide directly over the row, directing the spray or granules into the whorl of the plant.

Grady nominations sets record for Sen. Percy

Sen. Charles H. Percy's selection of John Grady of Waukegan for a federal judgeship has given the senior senator from Illinois a record for nominating top candidates to the U.S. bench.

The American Bar Association has found Grady, a 46-year-old attorney, "well qualified" to become federal district judge for the Northern District of Illinois.

That bench was vacated in April when Chief Judge Edwin Robeson went on senior status.

The Justice Department has advised the senator that Grady's ABA grade of "well qualified" gives Percy 12 out of 15 judicial nominations characterized as either "exceptionally well qualified," the top rating, " or "well qualified" second on the scale.

Until the Grady nomination, Percy had been tied with Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey, another Republican, for nominating a record number of highly qualified candidates for federal judgeships.

Besides its two top grades for prospective federal judges, the ABA also can find a candidate either qualified or not qualified.

All 15 of Percy's nominees to the federal judiciary since he became the ranking Illinois senator in 1969 have been found qualified or better by the ABA.

It is the privilege of the senior senator of the president's party to send nominations to the White House for vacancies in the senator's state.

Senators making the nominations customarily do not disclose their recommendations until they are announced by the White House.

Percy's office has neither confirmed nor denied that he has selected Grady, but Grady is known to be his choice.

An attorney since 1955, Grady was a fromer U.S. Attorney from 1956 to 1961. He has been in law practice since then with Robert Tieken in Waukegan.

Assault charge

Norman Graham, 40, of 2638 E. 24th St., was arrested in the 1500 block of Madison Avenue this week and was charged with battery and two counts of aggravated assault.

Dee Dee Schleicher, 14, of the same address, a relative of Graham, alleged he struck her as she attempted to stop a quarrel in the home.

She said she ran across the street to the home of Anna Meszaros, 2639 E. 24th St., and alleged Graham came to that home and threatened Anna Meszaros and Robert Meszaros, 4025 Gaslight Walk, Pontoon Beach, with a pocket knife. Graham then left and went to a tavern where he was arrested, it was alleged.

Marijuana charge

Security officers at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have charged a Centralia youth with illegal possession of marijuana.

Brad Parkinson, 17, of Centralia, has been summoned to appear Aug. 25 in Third Judicial Circuit Court. He is charged with possession of more than two and one-half but less than 100 grams of marijuana.

Parkinson was arrested at the Outdoor Performing Arts Facility.

Hearings set on social services plan

A series of public hearings called by four state agencies will be held next week to hear comments on a proposed social services plan for the citizens of Illinois.

Residents and representatives of community groups living in or near Sangamon County are invited to appear at a hearing scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 5, in Springfield at the Department of Transportation, 2300 S. Dirksen Parkway.

Testimony will be heard from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. by key officials of the four agencies that provide social services in the state—the Departments of Children and Family Services, Corrections, Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities, and Public Aid.

Input from the public will provide finishing touches to the plan, prepared to comply with proposed federal regulations governing Title XX of the Social Security Act.

The 62-page document defines the program of social services that will be provided to eligible Illinois citizens effective Oct. 1. It allocates over $318 million for those services during a 21-month period ending June 30, 1977, according to James L. Trainor, state aid agency director.

Copies of the plan are available for review at all country and district public aid offices through Aug. 15, the end of a required 45-day comment period, or by writing the Bureau of Social Services, Illinois Department of Public Aid, 624 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago 60605.

Copies are available by telephoning a toll-free number, 800-972-4210, between 9 a. m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, again until Aug. 15.

The proposed plan outlines the 23 social services being made available, by the agencies, statewide to persons and families receiving aid to families with dependent children (AFDC), supplemental security income (SSI), and state supplemental payment (SSP) assistance, the latter benefit the aged, blind, and disabled in Illinois. A provision of the plan also makes services available to persons with limited incomes.

The plan is the result of a series of statewide public hearings and the work of an interagency task force, also represented by Gov. Dan Walker's office and the Bureau of the Budget.

Illinois, under new federal legislation, has been vested with greater autonomy in the delivery of its social services, Trainor pointed out. The state was permitted to establish priorities according to the most pressing needs of the eligible population. Guidelines also allowed for greater public participation in the planning process.

Existing regulations are restrictive and do not address the services to the particular needs of the people whom they are to help. For the next 21 months, priorities have been established for day care for children, foster care, social and rehabilitation (individual and group counseling for children, adults, the aged, blind, and disabled), and information and referral (available community resources), among other categories.

Social services are provided to help a person become more self-sufficient and self-supporting.

The 23 categories offered in the new plan also include housekeeping and chore, day care for adults, day training (for the developmentally disabled), education and training, employment, family planning, health, home management and housing, legal, transitional placement (foster or group homes), and transportation.

Fees according to the income of the family will be charged for adoption, say care for children, foster care, homemaker, services to unmarried parents, and short-term evaluation (for placing children in intensive therapy).

Four of the services—community education (for delinquents and ex-offenders), information and referral (available community resources), and protective services for adults and children (mainly counseling and alternative living arrangements)—also will be made available to the general public at no charge.

Additional persons may be eligible for social services under the new legislation because of limited incomes. For example, members of a family of three with a gross annual income of $9,940 would be considered eligible, according to new legislation.

For fiscal year 1975, $185,184,000 was earmarked for social services in Illinois. The fiscal year 1976 figure is estimated at $190,633,000.

Other public hearings will be held in Belleville and Marion on Aug. 4, in Champaign on Aug. 5, in Peoria and Rock Island on Aug. 6, in Chicago on Aug. 7, and in Rockford on Aug. 8.

To make arrangements to testify at the Springfield hearing, interested persons may call Fred Metz at 217-786-6991. Written testimony will be accepted at the Department of Public Aid's Chicago address through Aug. 15.

First SIUE doctor's degree

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will grant its first doctor's degree Saturday, Aug. 9, at commencement exercises for the first graduating class of the School of Dental Medicine.

Gov. Daniel Walker will address the graduates, and degrees will be conferred by SIUE President John S. Rendleman. The program will begin at 2 p.m. in the Communications Building theater on the Edwardsville campus.

Presiding with President Rendleman will be Dr. Stanley P. Hazen, dean of the School of Dental Medicine. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Russell Wigfield, a campus minister.

The names of the graduates will be read by Dr. James D. Harrison, associate dean of the School of Dental Medicine, and the graduates will be hooded by Vice-President and Provost Andrew J. Kochman and Dr. Philip M. Hoag, chairperson of the Faculty Assembly of the School of Dental Medicine.

A response on behalf of the Class of 1975 will be given by Dean W. Drake of Belleville, president of the class.

The SIU board of trustess will be represented at the program by Ivan A. Elliott Jr., chairman.

A concert by the SIUE brass ensemble will precede the exercises, and the graduates will be honored at a reception following the program in the Communications Building.

The School of Dental Medicine, the first in Illinois outside Cook County, was established in 1969 after being recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The first class of 24 students was admitted at the new dental school's Alton campus in September 1972. Students attend 45 weeks per year, enabling them to complete the requirements for their professional degree in three years instead of the traditional four.

The number of students admitted was increased to 40 with the second class, beginning in September 1973. Last year, with the school's third class, again numbering 40, the starting date was changed from September to June to enable the class to graduate in June instead of August (1977).

Parents provide bus for trip

The Parents of Special Education provided a bus to transport eight children to the Little Grassy area near Southern Illinois University at Carbondale for the two-week vacation.

Cost of sending a child to the camp for two weeks is set at $155 per child and donations for the summer event were provided by the Illinois Crippled Children Association, Council for Exceptional Children, VFW Post 1300 and the Granite City Rotary Club.

The children will return home on Saturday, according to the sponsoring clubs.

Larry E. Hicks in missile unit

Sergeant Larry E. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hicks, 2409 Logan Ave., is a member of the missile maintenance unit which recently won the Chadwell trophy as the best in Strategic Air Command.

Sergeant Hicks is a missile mechanic at Francis E. Warren AFB, Wyo., with the 90th Missile Maintenance Squadron which was awarded the rotating trophy, named for a late missile wing commander.

The 90th was recognized for its outstanding performance in maintaining two different weapons systems at the same time during a changeover from Minuteman I to the newer Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

Colonel Christopher S. Adams Jr., commander of the squadron's parent 90th Strategic Missile Wing, commented, "Due to the nature of the force modernization program, it was not possible to let the world know about the tremendous extra effort expended to make the Minuteman ICBM improvements. The Chadwell trophy is truly evidence of that effort."

The sergeant is a 1970 graduate of Granite City High School. Sergeant Hicks' wife, Evon, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Morgan, Rural Route One, Granite City.

Karl Ebrecht in U.S. Air Force

Karl Ebrecht of Granite City has enlisted in the U.S. Air Force. He selected a guaranteed job as a security policeman under the Air Force's guaranteed jobs program.

Ebrecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ebrecht, 48 Shirlwin Drive, was graduated from Granite City High School North in June 1974.

Airman Ebrecht will attend Security Specialist school after completion of basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex.

More information about enlistment in the United States Air Force may be obtained from Sergeant Michael Kimberlain at 1204 Niedringhaus, Granite City, phone 876-5225.

Recruit foster parents

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Service is continuing its recruitment campaign in the Madison, St. Clair, Monroe and Randolph County areas to find foster parents for teenagers who, for one reason or another, are unable to live with their natural families.

The department has a sufficient number of foster homes for younger children but currently needs an additional 60 foster home beds in order to adequately care for the teenagers which are under its guardianship.

Many department social workers feel that the various communities are unwilling to care for adolescent foster children, according to Tom Kircher, social service program planner in the department's East St. Louis area. According to Kircher, the department has consistently had a greater number of teens to be placed than appropriate homes available since 1970.

In addition to the need for foster parents, the department also is searching for "boarding house" and roomate situations where older adolescents may reside while paying board directly to the owners.

The main requirements for foster parents are flexibility, concern, patience and understanding, according to Kircher. Foster parents may be couples or individuals. They must be 21, but other than this requirement, they may be from almost any age group.

Some teens may stay with their foster parents for relatively short periods of time. Others may stay until they are able to return to their own families or until they enter an independent living situation.

In any case, the department pays foster parents a fee for each child. The fee will vary with the age and needs of the foster child and is intended to cover the child's board, clothing and incidental expenses.

Medical and dental expenses incurred by foster children also are paid by the state.

Prospective foster parents will be invited to attend a group meeting of applicants. Before becoming a foster parent, a person must be licensed.

The licensing process consists primarily of attendance at a group meeting, a series of interviews with an agency social worker, a medical examination, food references and attendance at a series of training sessions.

Area residents interested in becoming foster parents or offering boarding space may call one of the following Department field offices: Alton, 463-3841; Belleville, 277-2900; E. St. Louis, 875-2400; Granite City, 876-8985; Sparta, 443-4317.

Best results in canning

By CATHERINE MAUCK
Home Economics Adviser

Canning or freezing does not improve the initial quality of a food no matter how expert you are. All you can do is preserve the quality and nutrients and prevent spoilage.

For best results start with high quality vegetables and fruits. Choose firm fruits, and young, tender vegetables. If you grow them, harvest early in the morning before they have absorbed heat from the sun and process them immediately.

If you must keep the food a short time before processing, keep it in a cool, airy place or put in the refrigerator.

When you are ready to can or freeze, sort the food according to size and ripeness — this helps to insure more even cooking. Wash thoroughly, whether or not they are to be pared.

Dirt contains some of the bacteria that are hardest to kill. Wash small lots at a time under running water or through several changes of water. Do not let foods soak, though, or they will lose flavor and nutrients.

Be sure you blanche vegetables before freezing to destroy enzymes that continue to change the taste and texture of foods when frozen. Blanching also helps retain vitamins and increases potential storage time in the freezer. The only vegetable which does not have to be blanched prior to freezing is rhubarb.

Beets and winter squash are precooked before freezing and tomatoes are stewed. For top results follow the directions given in U. of I. Circular 602, How to Prepare Fruits and Vegetables for Freezing. A copy may be obtained from your Cooperative Extension Service office.

Properly blanched vegetables may be stored in the freezer from 9 to 12 months.

PETE SEEGER, guitarist, singer and arranger, who will appear in a special folk music program at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at the festival. Seeger has recorded numerous albums and tours extensively throughout the United States and the world.

ARLO GUTHRIE, singer of "Alice's Restaurant" and "City of New Orleans," who will appear with Pete Seeger Wednesday evening at the Mississippi River Festival. Arlo is the son of the late Woodie Guthrie, one of those most responsible for the rapid rise in the popularity of folk music in the 1960s.

Czech films, Roberta Flack, Seeger and Guthrie among next week's MRF features

A Czechoslovakian Film Festival and a week-long residency by the Erick Hawkins Dance Company highlight the sixth week of activities at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Other events for the week include Roberta Flack on Tuesday, Aug. 5; Arlo Guthrie and Pete Seeger on Wednesday, Aug. 6; Chamber Music, Thursday, Aug. 7; America on Sunday, Aug. 10; and two Alfred Hitchcock films, also Sunday.

The Czech Film Festival includes three important films made during the Czech renaissance when the political climate in the country had eased prior to the fall of the Dubcek government in 1968.

The first, "Love of a Blonde," will be shown at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday in the Communications Building Theater. The movie presents many delightful and deceptively simple observations about the ironies of romantic aspirations.

The second film in the Czech series, "Closely Watched Trains," shown at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Communications Theater, is a winner of an Academy Award for "Best Foreign Film." Its subject is the experience of a young trainee in a provincial railway station during the German occupation of Czechoslovakia.

The final Czech film, "Capricious Summer," shown at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the Communications Theater Wednesday is an outstanding example of director Jiri Menzel's ability to display, and then forgive, human frailties. It focuses on three middle-aged friends who attempt to seduce a pretty young girl. Their sadly inept attempts make them realize they must abandon their illusions of youth.

Roberta Flack appears at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Festival. Miss Flack, whose hits include "Killing Me Softly With His Song," "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," and "Feel Like Making Love," currently is at the peak of a career that makes her the highest paid female vocalist in the world. A perfectionist, she is a producer, writer, arranger and conductor on her latest album, which was a year in making.

Appearing with Roberta Flack is Ramsey Lewis, who has been in the forefront of popular jazz for more than a decade.

Arlo Guthrie and Pete Seeger, appearing Wednesday will bring folk music back to the Festival. Seeger, who was a close friend of the late Woodie Guthrie, now tours with Woodie's son, Arlo, who has had a number of popular folk hits on his own, including "City of New Orleans" and "Alice's Restaurant," seems to fit well with Seeger as did his father. They will perform at 8:30 p.m.

The Chamber Music Series will present a special program on Villa Lobos, Mozart and Stravinsky, Thursday, Aug. 7 at 8:30 p.m. in the Communications Building Theater.

The theater is being used for the final chamber music performance, rather than the campus Religious Center, where previous programs were presented, because a special program, utilizing mime and the dance in accompaniment to the music, is planned.

Friday and Saturday, Aug. 8 and 9, the Erick Hawkins Dance Company will present its program in modern dance. Hawkins, who has been one of the foremost figures in modern dance for decades, will lead his company in the innovative forms of the dance for which it has become famous.

In addition, the company will be in residency during the week, offering classes, demonstrations and lectures in the Hawkins technique.

Sunday, Aug. 10, the rock group America will perform, bringing its style of listenable rock music to the Festival at 8:30 p.m. The group, composed of three young Americans who migrated to England to find success, has had a number of hits, including "A Horse With No Name" and the current hit "Sister Golden Hair."

Appearing with America will be The Captain and Tennile, whose hit "Love Will Keep Us Together" was number one in the country this summer.

Closing out the week is a showing of two Alfred Hitchcock classics, "Saboteur" and "Strangers On A Train," scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 10, in the Communications Theater.

ROBERTA FLACK, the highest paid female vocalist in the world, will appear Tuesday evening at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Miss Flack has recorded numerous hits, including "Killing Me Softly With His Song," "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," and "Feel Like Making Love."

YOUNG MAN INJURED

United Way adapting to current needs of local area

Announcements this summer have been tracing the assembling of the Tri-Cities Area United Way's campaign team for the annual financial drive in October.

The $430,000 goal set this month was determined with full realization of present employment patterns, and with simultaneous awareness of the substantial missions to be served by the member agencies. Their operations during the 1976 calendar year will depend on the funds contributed and pledged this fall.

The United Way increasingly is being "fine tuned" to the specific problems and wishes of local employes and residents, aided by such efforts as the current survey utilizing random sampling techniques.

Questions being asked include the pinpointing of programs or services that should be added or dropped.

The survey also is determining citizens' rating of the degree of importance they attach to adoption, foster homes, alcoholism, disaster assistance, help for minority groups, care of children, provision of blood, consumer and credit counseling, drug abuse, emergency financial aid, employment assistance, family planning, youth and marital counseling, help for senior citizens, housing assistance, information referral, job training, legal help, mental health services, neighborhood improvement, recreation, social disease treatment and prevention, suicide counseling and services for the handicapped and disabled.

The objective of this and other current United Way activities is to not only foster wide public support for UW agencies but to assure that measurable progress is made toward resolving the problems that led to the agencies' formation.

Campaign law revised; lobby law not yet strengthened

Congress has not yet gotten around to strengthening the 1946 federal lobbying act. A stronger law is urged by many, in view of the millions of dollars being spent to influence the conduct of the public's business in Washington; only a small fraction of this spending is reported.

Full disclosure would allow citizens to know the role special interests play when decisions are made on public matters.

The late Chief Justice Earl Warren wrote, "Full realization of the American ideal of government by elected representatives depends to no small extent on their ability to properly evaluate the myriad pressures to which they are subjected."

The present law is virtually unenforceable. Accordingly, it is not enforced and is ineffective.

A General Accounting Office report found that of 1,920 lobbying reports filed with Congress in one period last year, 48 per cent were incomplete and 60 per cent were filed after the deadline. GAO did not determine how many lobbyists who should register did not, but observers believe the number may be as high as 80 per cent.

Although this has been going on for years, officials with custody of the reports required by the 29-year-old law have yet to refer a single violation to the Justice Department for investigation and prosecution. They say they need direction from the House or Senate to do so, and the direction has never come.

Huge organizations hiring many lobbyists and financing costly nationwide campaigns to influence legislation have never registered because they contend that lobbying is not their principal work.

Proposed legislation would require a full accounting from all such groups, with itemized disclosure of expenditures and financial sources. Enforcement could be by an agency independent of Congress, possibly the new Federal Election Commission created last year to enforce new federal campaign laws.

In the wake of Watergate, Congress has reformed campaign guidelines but has repeatedly failed to strengthen the lobby law. Postive action on lobbying is being called a necessary step for full restoration of confidence in government.

Anti-business attitude by the state?

To the Editor:

Governor Walker's signature on Senate Bills 234, 235, 285 and House Bill 1654 on June 30 marked the sad end to a vigorous fight that all of Illinois industry and their representative associations waged in Springfield.

The deck was stacked and sheer labor legislative power rammed the bills through without an industry amendment being adopted.

IMA and six other statewide business associations which had worked together on the unemployment compensation bill (SB 285) and the workmen's compensation and occupational diseases bills (SB 234 and 235), sent Gov. Walker a telegram on June 13, urging him not to act until we had been given an opportunity to be heard on them.

Not having heard anything from the governor by June 24, we wrote Gov. Walker a four-page letter in which the principal grievances of industry with the bills were spelled out and in which we urged Gov. Walker to veto the bills or at least use his amendatory veto power to change parts of them.

We have never heard from the governor on either our telegram or the letter.

On Friday, June 27, the governor did briefly see a representative of the Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association and a labor benefits expert from industry (a key member of IMA's UC and WC committees) about these bills.

The governor agreed that SB 234 and 235, in particular, had many shortcomings and asked them to prepare by that evening suggested changes for his possible use in an amendatory veto, which they did.

On Monday, June 30, the governor signed all four bills. Organized labor had won a total but pyrrhic victory.

In the future, we will work to achieve needed amendments to these laws as experience with them serves to prove us right. If organized labor continues its attitude toward these issues, it is completely predictable that more manufacturing jobs will be leaving Illinois.

The best news yet is that the General Assembly stands adjourned until noon on Wednesday, Oct. 22, at which time it will return to Springfield to consider the governor's action on legislation and take up its fall calendar.

Apart from the drastic economic impact of the UC-WC legislation, the General Assembly refrained from the enactment of much other harmful legislation, notably collective bargaining for public employes, an issue which is sure to return to the legislative halls.

IMA members, growingly aware of the consequences of political apathy, are urged to increase their local participation in partisan political affairs, develop a continuing dialogue with Senate and House members now and during the coming months, and become more and more politically visible in their legislative districts and community affairs.

Illinois' anti-industry climate worsens as other states intensify efforts to bolster their economic positions.

Intensive effort to change government attitude in Illinois quickly is well warranted.

Arkansas wooing 93-year-old firm

To the Editor:

I went to Arkansas in June to look at industrial sites, with the help and guidance of a man from their Industrial Development Commission.

Founded in Chicago in 1882, our company has been able to grow and prosper in Illinois, including expansion to our present location in Franklin Park. The word "has" is the key word, and it concerns the past.

Attitudes and actions of the Illinois government bodies in recent times are clouding the business climate of this good state, and are about to rain so hard as to wash us out.

No matter how strong one's desire to stay, there comes a time when pressures of taxes and costs of doing business reach a point that dictate you must go.

In all honesty, we fear that the time is drawing near. If in fact we must go, then we had better determine where we are wanted. Arkansas, for one, wants us. Others are inviting us to see them, too.

It appears to us that we are now being governed and legislated by some very short-sighted people. We feel they just plain don't understand the situation, or that they are deliberately trying to rid this state of business. Surely it can't be the latter.

Other states are not making "special deals" to lure business to them. All that most of them are doing is simply offering a balanced tax structure for everyone, and no outlandish giveaways to either business or individuals. In other words, a fair deal for all.

We don't seem to be getting through to government in a way that it too can see and understand, if it wants to, that its priorities are a bit mixed up.

Illinois Constitution--'modern instrument'

Editor's Note: This is the fifth of six articles in regard to how persons involved with writing the state Constitution of 1970 and others view the document five years later.

SPRINGFIELD — "Oh, I think there's no question that we're much better off for having gone through the experience. We do have a much better Constitution. It does have some real problems, of course."

This is the view of state Sen. Dawn Clark Netsch, D-Chicago, one of 13 legislators who were also delegates to the 1970 Illinois Constitutional Convention. A lawyer and highly regarded legislator, Sen. Netsch was one of the delegates most active in the drafting process.

Speaking of the 1970 Constitution, four years old in July — it became effective July 1, 1971 — she describes it as being "more livable" than its century-old predecessor "in terms of being a more modern instrument."

From the legislative standpoint, Sen. Netsch says "we were able to eliminate a lot of the old junky, hand-tying, restrictive provisions that slowed the legislative process."

Like Springfield convention delegate Maurice W. Scott, Sen. Netsch believes that a major accomplishment in the new Constitution is the inclusion of a new Bill of Rights attuned to modern circumstances. It specifically prohibits, for instance, any discrimination on the basis of sex, or discrimination in employment and property sale or rental.

She feels that one of the most practical and far-reaching advances in the new Constitution is the article dealing with education. It provides that "the state has the primary responsibility for financing the system of public education."

"This provision on school financing has had the effect of putting pressure on the legislature to make the money available," Sen. Netsch says.

She feels that "by and large the legislature has been considerably strengthened ... although not all will agree. The amendatory veto power given the governor has certainly exacerbated tensions between the executive and the legislature. But much of this is a matter of personalities."

Sen. Netsch cites as one problem created by the new Constitution the provision that all personal property taxes in Illinois must be abolished by Jan. 1, 1979, and that the General Assembly "shall replace all revenue lost by units of local government and school districts as a result of the abolition.

Current estimates are that the state will have to come up with $400 million a year to fill the gap.

Sen. Netsch is pleased with the working of the home rule article in the new Constitution. She feels that by and large the cities have used their new powers, including broad taxing authority, "creatively and imaginatively."

"I think it has been a good thing," she adds. "It has worked fairly well and has awakened the cities to their responsibilities. I think there has been relatively little outrageous use of it (the taxing power). In general they have used it very carefully."

Although the legislature under the new Constitution retains the power to rescind powers granted under home rule by a three-fifths vote, Sen. Netsch sees little likelihood of this happening.

"There is a tendency to leave it as it is," she says, "unless they (the cities) begin to go overboard. But there has been virtually no overreaching."

One of the most controversial taxes so far enacted under home rule has been a so-called "head tax" whereby Chicago levies a tax on money earned in the city by employes and companies who live or which are based outside the city limits.

"It's really a dumb tax," says Sen. Netsch, who has long been at odds with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. "But in the abstract it's something that Chicago should be able to do if it wants to."

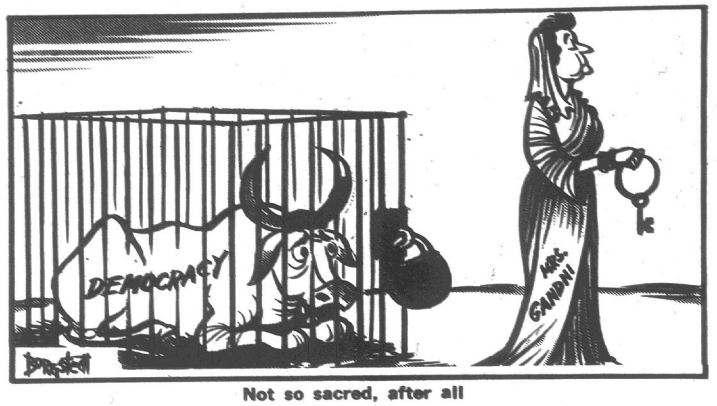

Sen. Netsch believes the switching of the election of the governor and other state officers from the presidential to off-years was a step forward and that it "was probably wise" to have the governor and lieutenant governor elected as a team although "it's not all that important."

"We could have gotten rid of more offices," she adds. "There's no need for an elected state treasurer."

Sen. Netsch regrets that the new Constitution does not include provision for ending cumulative voting for House candidates, non-political selection of judges, assuring the right to vote for 18-year-olds and abolishing capital punishment.

All of these were submitted to the voters as separate propositions and all were defeated. Sen. Netsch believes that including any of the four in the main body of the proposed Constitution would have assured its defeat.

"We were all political amateurs, but for political amateurs we did show some political awareness," she concludes.

Not so sacred, after all

Is it time for an 'apron' trial?

(Press-Record Washington Bureau)

It was just 50 years ago this summer that a young schoolteacher named John T. Scopes became the defendant in the famous "monkey trial" testing whether the state of Tennessee could forbid the teaching of evolution in public schools.

The old Darwin vs. Genesis argument about the Creation still flares in textbook controversies from time to time.

But a recent missive from a major publisher, Macmillan, shows how far we have come since 1925 in our concern about how school books affect the minds of children.

Macmillan is distributing a set of new guidelines to authors of textbooks and artists who illustrate them. Among other things, the publisher does not want texts to promote "stereotyped social attitudes" about men and women.

Whether Eve was created from Adam's rib is no longer the issue.

What is important is that all the Adams and Eves in today's world be protrayed without "sexist" prejudices.

Illustrators are urged to avoid the familiar domestic scene showing mother sewing while dad reads. Why not have mother reading, says the publisher, while dad clears the dishes off the dining room table?

A picture of mother bringing sandwiches to dad while he fixed the roof is held up as a bad example. A better picture would show mother fixing the roof herself.

For authors, the word "coed" is out. Students are students, male or female.

A salesman must be a sales person, a businessman a business person.

The sentence "Women were given the vote after the First World War" is listed as a no-no in the guidelines. It should be "Women won the vote after the First World War."

A woman would not be identified as Mrs. John Jones in a new text, but as Mrs. Susan Jones if her name is Susan. And the Joneses are husband and wife, not man and wife.

Some authors and artists may find that the guidelines cramp their style, but it is the publisher who pays them, so presumably they will conform.

What should concern the publishers is that their new specifications for textbooks are likely to create a liberated-wihman stereotype that is as offensive to many people as any wife and mother stereotype it replaces.

The Scopes trial arose because Bible-reading folks in Tennessee objected to their kids coming home from school with ideas contrary to the old time religion.

Is Macmillan inviting strife at the supper table when second graders pop up with advanced ideas about how the household should be organized?

Somewhere in the land there may be a woman who would rather let her husband fix the roof and doesn't mind doing the dishes while he reads, and feels strongly enough about it to hale some latter-day John Scopes into court for infecting her children with heresy.

An "apron trial" would be a welcome diversion in these troubled times, if we can only find the likes of Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan to square off before the jury.

Let your fingers do the talking

(American Psychological Association)

If you hum, sing or talk when you work, and if your work involves delicate hand movements, you may be reducing your efficiency, according to a new psychological study.

Dr. Robert E. Hicks, a psychologist at the State University of New York at Albany, found that both talking and humming interfered with the ability to balance a rod with the right hand in right-handed people.

Left-handed subjects showed reduced balancing ability in the left hand, or in both hands when they were required to vocalize.

These results, which concur with those of several recent psychological studies, indicate that, for most right-handers, verbal abilities are controlled by the left side of the brain.

The left side of the brain controls the right hand in all people.

Thus, talking and right-handed balancing require the brain's left side to control two competing tasks at the same time, and the ability to balance suffers.

The results, reported in the American Psychological Association's Journal of Comparative and Physiological Psychology, showed no deficit in left-handed balancing while right-handers were talking.

In this case, left-handed movements are controlled by the right side of the brain and vocalization is controlled by the left side, so that no competition exists.

For left-handed people, the situation is more complicated.

Left-handers with a family history of left-handedness may have the control of speech located in the right side of the brain. If so, talking interferes only with left-handed performance since the right side of the brain controls this hand.

In those not from a left-handed family background, the localization of speech control seems to be less clear-cut.

Speaking interferes with performance of both hands. This may also be true for right-handers from a left-handed family.

Other research by Dr. Roger W. Sperry, at the California Institute of Technology, and Dr. Brenda Milner, at Montreal Neurological Institute, has indicated that the brain is composed of two functionally distinct halves.

In most right-handed people, the left side of the brain controls verbal ability while the right side of the brain controls abstract ability, such as mathematical and spatial performance.

The specialization of the brain's two sides appears to begin during childhood and to become fixed by the mid-teen years.

Superior airport at Dallas is attracting industry

(Illinois-Missouri Progressive Airport Creation Task Force)

To keep our members informed on the latest developments in the continuing airport controversy, and since there are no meetings scheduled during the months of June and July, the following is a synopsis of happenings since our last meeting on May 21:

1) Did you notice the report that Lambert had an increase in passenger traffic of 10 per cent during 1974?

The national average was down 10 per cent, but St. Louis and Atlanta each had an increase of 10 per cent—a swing of 20 per cent from the national average—during a year in which commercial aviation took a financial beating.

If St. Louis traffic increases that much in economic "bad times," what will happen in the years ahead? What does this do to the pessimistic forecasts?

What does it do to the Parsons plan, which was forced to combine the most optimistic view of technological improvements with the most pessimistic view of passenger traffic in order to provide some backing, however weak, of its predictions for the future of Lambert?

2) In a related development, the Federal Aviation Administration took Parsons to task. The FAA made it clear that the Parsons plan allowed absolutely no room for error.

Because Parsons reached for the outer limits of low traffic and high technology, even a slight error on either crucial ingredient would ruin their entire forecast.

The FAA approved $101,581 to complete the final two phases of the Parsons plan, but said the approval does not imply agreement with the study's findings so far. And it added that the first two phases contain "a number of serious misunderstandings and-or misrepresentations."

3) One of the nation's largest companies, W. R. Grace, moved part of its operations to Dallas and cited superior aviation facilities and good geographic location as the reasons.

Just think about St. Louis...center of the nation, river, rail, highway facilities...imagine what can happen to our economy with the major new airport—and with Lambert available to leap forward (as did Love Field at Dallas) in serving private and corporate planes and their associated business developments.

4) A very important development is that seven of the nine airlines serving Lambert Field made a formal statement to the Department of Transportation recommending "land banking" for the Columbia-Waterloo site.

Since the airlines will be paying for the bulk of the development of the new airport, it is significant that, despite pressures from St. Louis and St. Louis County users, they had the courage to file this report with the Department of Transportation.

5) When can we expect a final decision on the airport? Informed guesses have ranged from early fall through early next year.

A letter within the past few days from Transportation Secretary Coleman to Congressman Price makes references to the FAA report expected by mid-August, and notes that the report should complete the package of information needed to proceed with a prompt verdict.

6) It has been announced that the Regional Commerce and Growth Association has formed a committee to study the airport controversy in the hopes of contributing to its ultimate resolution.

In an article in St. Louis Commerce Magazine, RCGA President Clarence C. Barksdale stated, "It is high time the airport question is settled; it has dragged on much too long. There is grave danger that St. Louis will be left far behind as an air gateway unless we move off dead center."

The committee is to make its report to the RCGA board of directors by fall.

7) In the public hearings on the Parsons Report, H. J. Haberaecker read IMPACT's statement at the hearing held in Earth City, Mo. IMPACT's statement brought out the viewpoints of IMPACT and especially the defects of the Parsons Report. A representative of the Parsons Co. seemed to take special notice of the questions raised in the IMPACT statement.

8) Messrs. Haberaecker, Hall and Sternberg met with Senator Percy in Springfield to discuss what the Illinois delegation can do about the airport situation. It was learned that the senator is very much aware of the problems involved and is doing all he can to secure a decision.

He stated that the Illinois delegation does not get as much publicity as the Missouri delegation because they work mostly behind the scenes.

9) IMPACT is the only organization actively seeking the development of Lambert Field to its fullest potential and the development of the Columbia-Waterloo site.

Additionally, we represent business, labor, government, civic and public interests on both sides of the river and we are supported entirely by private contributions. Therefore, July was set aside for a fund-raising campaign to make a final and big push for the development of the viewpoint of IMPACT.

It is the feeling of the board of directors that we are reaching the most crucial point in the final decision expected sometime in late October or early November. It is the hope of the board that the necessary financial support will be forthcoming to enable IMPACT to carry out its objectives.

10) The next meeting of IMPACT will be on Tuesday, Aug. 12.

Latex HOUSE PAINT

Your house stretches and shrinks with variations in temperature and humidity. It's this expansion and contraction that most often causes house paint to work loose, crack and peel.

The flexibility of Sun-Proof Latex House Paint enables it to resist the stress and strain that ruptures an otherwise sound paint film. It resists cracking, peeling and flaking. Come in today for a free color chart.
